RESIDENT ASTONISHED AT HOW HER POSSESSIONS VANISHED!

THE CASE OF THE HOUSE, THE KEY, THE GARAGE...

(and the disappearing car!)

by GEM REPORTER

A Barry woman is in dispute with the Vale Council – following a bizarre set of events involving a house, a key, a garage, and a disappearing car.

On August 21 last year, mum of two Stacey Edros, took possession of a house in Woodstock Close.

She was thrilled to have a home of her own.

"The housing officer showed me round the house and it was amazing," she said.

"He gave me the key to the front door, the back door and the bin shed.

"He handed me another key and said 'You'll have to go round and find out what this one's for'."

About 20 yards from Stacey's house, situated at the entrance to the close, is a set of garages.

"I went over there and the key opened the first garage. Having a garage with the house was a nice bonus.

"I was able to store the children's bikes, a bed frame, a TV, some pieces of furniture and a suitcase containing paintings by my children and my sister's children."

In July this year her brother Peter asked if he could put his Citroen in the garage until he could afford to get it back on the road.

So far, so good...

But last Friday, there was a mysterious turn of events.

"My nephew came into the house after school and said: 'Where's the stuff from your garage gone?'"

Her nephew said there was a man with a car outside her garage, and tyres in it, but no sign of her possessions or the car.

"It sounded unbelievable. I went outside and spoke to the man by my garage and said: 'Excuse me, where's my stuff gone?' He said: 'I picked up the keys for the garage this morning, I'm renting it for £7.50 a week'."

Stacey was baffled. She endured a troubling weekend having to tell her brother his car had vanished and had to wait for the council offices to open on Monday morning to get some sort of an explanation.

"On Monday morning, I spoke to a woman at the council, who told me the garage wasn't in my tenancy agreement.

"She said my possessions had been disposed of and the car had been taken to a salvage company."

Visions of the car being crushed or taken apart entered her mind.

But when she got in touch with the salvage company, she discovered – to her relief – that it was intact, but she would have to pay a £120 retrieval fee.

Infant and nursery pupils' scrumptious project

Tasty fundraising at St Helen's School!

Raising money for Macmillan Cancer Support turned out to be a very tasty project for the pupils, staff and the PFA from St Helen's Infant & Nursery School in Barry. Held in St Helen's Church Hall, the school was one of the many organisations taking part in the "World's Biggest Coffee Morning". The national event is organised every year by Macmillan to raise funds for cancer research – with the school raising £434.03 in the three hours the make-shift coffee shop was open. As well as some extremely tasty home made cakes, there were many great raffle prizes, donated by parents and friends of the school. The PFA would like to thank all who helped to make this a very successful event.

'Bloated councils system goes on'

SO Corbynite Mark Drakeford, AM has yet again decided to put the interests of the Labour Party before those of the electorate – by this time ignoring the evidence of the Williams Commission to impose a reduction in the number of Welsh councils.

We will continue with the bloated, inefficient model of council representation, which rewards the careers of the party faithful whilst crippling the rest of us with ever-increasing tax bills – and ever-reducing levels of service – whilst denying us electors a say on the issue.

When will the Welsh electorate wake up from the 1980s, realise that King Coal is dead and vote for a party that will address our accelerating decline in relation to the rest of the UK?

Ian Williams,
Llangrallo.

Macmillan charity says 'thank you'

MACMILLAN Cancer Support in Wales would like to extend its thanks to your readers for their incredible support of this year's World's Biggest Coffee Morning.

Now in its 26th year, thousands of coffee mornings were held in schools, workplaces, community centres and homes all over Wales on and around Friday, September 30.

We have loved seeing so many fantastic photos of cakes over social media. This year has seen some wonderfully creative cakes and events. But more than that, we have loved seeing families, friends, colleagues and communities coming together for a coffee, a slice of cake and a chat, in support of Macmillan.

World's Biggest Coffee Morning is Macmillan's biggest annual fundraising event. Last year, we raised more than £26m – a total we hope to have beaten in 2016.

One in three of us will get cancer, with more than 130,000 people in Wales currently living with and beyond cancer.

The money raised will help us continue to provide services in Wales, including funding our nurses, physiotherapists, welfare benefits advisers and our information centres in some of Wales' hospitals, as well as campaigning for better cancer care for patients.

Susan Morris,
Head of services, Macmillan Cancer Support in Wales.

Penarth event raised £450

THE Macmillan Coffee Morning held on Saturday, September 24 in the Lesser Hall, Victoria Square, Penarth, raised £450.

Thank you to everyone who came and supported us. A big thank you also to local traders who donated raffle prizes: Luxe Beaute and Lana Beautique, The Florist Stanwell Road, Shaws, Thompsons Butcher, Umpa Lumpa Sweet Shop, Wood Street Post Office, and Purcell Stores.

Unclaimed raffle prizes: Yellow 707, 708, 715. Green 533. Please contact 029 2071 1657.

VALE SHOULD MONITOR COUNCILLORS' ATTENDANCE RECORD – INDEPENDENT

Call for greater transparency that fell on deaf ears

I WOULD like to respond to the comments made by Plaid Cymru's Nic Hodges in The GEM last week, with regard to my call for greater public transparency through the recording of councillors' votes – for future examination and justification to the public.

Having presented my motion for a comprehensive discussion and vote by full council, only to see it hijacked and diverted to a different committee chaired by its most vociferous opponent in Mr Hodges, with regard to my request for transparency, there clearly was little point in pursuing the matter – given that every councillor on his committee failed to support my motion.

My conclusion, of course, was proved correct when every councillor present at the subsequent full council (bar myself and two other Independents) voted to oppose my recorded votes motion.

Also in response to Mr Hodges' other comments, I would point out that clearly displayed on my councillor website is my record of 100 per cent attendance at full council meetings over the last four and a half years, which is in stark contrast to that of a number of his Plaid colleagues.

I now intend to present a motion calling for the Vale Council to display the full record of all ward councillors' attendance records on its website – to be updated monthly – in order that residents can monitor the attendance levels of their councillors.

One would hope Coun Hodges will support the motion that might help boost the levels of attendance of his own party members.

I will also be calling for reasons why councillors showing up for meetings are being recorded as present – before leaving early – which appears to have become an increasing trend.

Thanking you for this opportunity to put the record straight.

Kevin Mahoney,
Independent councillor Sully and Lavernock)

'Defibrillator sites need to be more widely publicised'

WELL done to Tom Wood, who, as reported in The GEM, acted quickly to get a defibrillator to assist someone who had collapsed.

This story coincides with what Llantwit First Independents and the town council are doing to provide information on the whereabouts of defibrillators in the town.

If we did a poll, we would probably find that few people would know how to get hold of such a potentially life-saving machine when needed.

If there are insufficient in the town, then we must find ways of providing more, either by donation, public subscription, or the council as part of its 'Wellbeing' initiatives.

We are trying to locate all defibrillators in the town, and, with the cooperation of local traders, advertise in shop windows, and on council noticeboards, the whereabouts of these machines.

It is vital we know where and when these machines are available in the evenings and weekends.

It was fortunate that the police station was able to help, but it is not always manned.

The Rugby Club, which also holds a machine, is open most evenings, but the surgeries are not. A similar scheme operates very successfully in Builth Wells.

It is essential that we create a system that publicises the availability of these machines, and we as a committee are currently working to achieve this.

Coun Jayne Norman,
Chair, Wellbeing Committee, Llantwit Major Town Council.

'Disgusted' by planning move

AFTER my comments last week re the planning application for Durrell Street, there was a site meeting held by the planning committee from the VOG.

Llantwit Major Vale councillors, together with local town councillors, were there to explain the difficulties that would be caused by the development of this particular site.

That evening, the Vale planning committee met to discuss this proposal, which was passed by a majority of 14 to 1.

I am disgusted by the planning committee members who made this decision without even visiting the site – therefore, they would have no idea of the complications this build will have upon the town.

Only four planning committee members came to the site, the other 17 couldn't, or wouldn't, attend the site meeting.

As we pay all these councillors, I feel they should be duty bound to attend a contentious planning application, which will have an enormous effect on the residents of the town.

I would like to say thank you to Vale councillor Eric Hacker for standing up for the townsfolk, even though it was to no avail.

Coun Jeff Evans.

Lest we forget... those who went over the top

ON October 7, I was privileged to return to the memorial at Thiepval on the Somme, commemorating the names of over 72,000 of those who died in the Battle of the Somme between July 1, 1916 and the end of the battles in November of that year.

A simple service is held daily, with the Last Post being sounded, and I was able to lay a wreath in memory of my grandfather, who had 'gone over the top' and was killed on October 7, 1916...just 100 years ago to the day.

At this time of year, we remember, through the Royal British Legion, those who died in that war and subsequent wars.

My wife and I are members of the Cowbridge branch of the British Legion.

As the launch of the appeal takes place, I urge all of you to buy poppies and remember 'my grandfather', and all the other men and women who gave their lives so that we could live as we do today.

Sadly, the lessons of war have not been learnt.

During the afternoon of October 7, we visited Mametz Wood and the Welsh memorial.

All the cemeteries and memorials are very moving...well worth a weekend visit!

Lest we forget!

Christopher L Pollard, OBE,
Cowbridge.

Mixed message on dog mess danger

I WRITE to you in response to your article in The GEM on Thursday, October 6, headed 'Council urges owners – Pick up your dog mess!'

I would like to point out, firstly, that the Mayor herself, has campaigned and had her photograph taken in the very same field where a sign stands at the entrance, requesting owners NOT to exercise animals in that area – because animal faeces can cause serious infection.

Does this not come across as a bizarre contradiction?

I have three young children who all play on the playing field every day, and as a parent, I am fed up with cleaning up dog foul from their shoes!

The idea of councillors handing out dog foul bags to dog owners who are exercising their dogs, in an area where dogs should not be, is the most unbelievable thing I have heard!

Perhaps the Mayor needs to promote the message that animals should not be in the area in the first place!

Hayley Pearce,
Llantwit Major

HIGH TIDE TIMES
(UNTIL OCTOBER 20)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary. For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 – 25 minutes later.

DATE	Time AM	Ht M	Time PM	Ht M
13 Thur	04.39	8.5	17.07	9.1
14 Fri	05.31	9.3	17.58	9.8
15 Sat	06.19	9.9	18.42	10.4
16 Sun	07.04	10.5	19.27	10.8
17 Mon	07.47	10.7	20.12	10.9
18 Tues	08.32	10.7	20.54	10.7
19 Wed	09.14	10.5	21.42	10.4
20 Thur	09.59	10.2	22.27	9.9

While The GEM makes every effort to check the accuracy of tide tables, we recommend that anyone putting out to sea, or walking in an area where they could be cut off, should check with a tide table specific to their location.

Hundreds pay their respects
Barry's farewell to Tom – the soldier with a heart of gold

ON a sunlit Barry morning, huge numbers of people attended the funeral of Tom Sloman (27), described by his family as a person "with a heart of gold", who loved rugby and football, and served his country in Afghanistan.

Tom, who died in July, had been a member of the Welsh Guards (Prince of Wales Company) and had recently left the Army.

Tom's grandfather Nick told The GEM: "There was an incredible turnout. It was one of the biggest funerals I have ever seen in Barry.

"Tom had achieved his dream of serving his country as a member of the Welsh Guards. He was so determined – three times he ran with a rucksack full of stones so he could make the required weight.

"He loved sport, and it was wonderful that his friends, the Stratford Green lads, who he had played football and rugby with, lined Coldbrook Road for the funeral procession and then dashed up to the church for the service."

It was estimated that between 600 and 700 people attended the funeral which took place at All Saints' Church.

One of the tributes from The Prince of Wales's Company read: 'ONCE A JAMBOY, ALWAYS A JAMBOY. Guardsman Tom Sloman Rest In Peace. With love from all ranks.'

His coffin, borne by his brother Daniel and five Guardsmen, was accompanied by a lone piper

Flags were lowered as a final tribute to Tom when he was laid to rest at Barry Cemetery.

Double celebration

ON September 19, Cadoxton (Barry) WI held their annual Harvest Festival Supper – it was also their 25th anniversary as they were inaugurated in 1991.

The vice-president, June Watkins, chaired the meeting and afterwards introduced the entertainment. Once again, Graham Rush played for the group and a great time was had by all!

Meetings are held every third Monday of the month, at Victoria Park Community Centre at 7pm. Contact 01446 404891 for more information.

Barry man meets medics who saved his life after heart attack

WHAT a Barry man thought was a harmless bout of indigestion, turned into a dramatic life or death struggle in July this year.

Alex was keen to thank the men who helped to save his life – Terry Bowsher (in the vehicle) and standing from left to right Mike Stevenson, Alex Fisher, Steve Magee and Irene Fisher.

Alex Fisher, aged 59, had gone to bed after a tiring day and was woken by a pain in his chest.

Thinking little of it, he went for a walk to the back door of the house to get some air and try and ease what he thought was severe indigestion. But it wasn't long before wife Irene went looking for him and found him ashen-coloured in the kitchen.

In no time at all, Alex's condition deteriorated so their grandson helped to carry him to the bathroom and minutes later Irene screamed 'heart attack' and called 999 for an ambulance.

"I just realized that it was far more serious than indigestion and a back problem. I was aware that heart attacks can show symptoms via unexpected areas like pains in the arms and jaw, and heaviness in the chest, but I really wasn't sure what was going on with Alex, since he wasn't able to tell me exactly what he felt and where.

"The ambulance call-taker was trying to keep me calm and ask appropriate questions, but ironically, it was Alex who was incredibly calm and very quiet."

Clinical team leader and paramedic Steve Magee arrived minutes later. He recalled: "Alex was clearly unwell and uncomfortable, but he was quite a 'trooper' and trying his best to bear the pain. I called for a back-up ambulance and a crew who were on their meal-break at Barry Ambulance Station and they responded immediately.

"Once the crew arrived, I put Alex on a monitor which made me think at the time that something major might be about to happen, and just as we transported him to the ambulance Alex suffered a cardiac arrest. I started CPR immediately and along with the crew we got him into the ambulance and shocked him with a defibrillator. Thank goodness Alex came round. We headed straight for University Hospital of Wales (UHW)."

Ambulance crew Terry Bowsher and Mike Stevenson added: "We rushed along on 'blue lights' because we knew Alex was in trouble. We monitored him the whole journey and warned the hospital that we were on our way."

Alex has recovered well, but remembers very little of the incident itself.

"I can recall the pain I was in at the time, and I can remember Steve the paramedic talking me through everything he was doing and explaining it all. But after the cardiac arrest hit me, I can only remember waking up in hospital and Irene telling me I'd had a massive heart attack.

"Steve, Terry and Mike were great. If it wasn't for them I wouldn't be here today.

"Steve did two minutes of CPR on me before shocking me and that's why I'm so supportive of the 'Restart a Heart Day' campaign which is running on Tuesday, October 18.

"It's so important that everyone has the basic life-saving skills. It's vital that youngsters learn CPR and are able to begin the cycle of survival as early as possible. It's because of the CPR by Steve, and the shock of the defibrillator that I'm around to tell my story today. I'll be forever grateful to them."

Restart a Heart Day will take place on Tuesday, October 18 when Welsh Ambulance Service staff and volunteers will facilitate CPR training at up to 60 secondary schools across Wales during the day.

Barry pupils play their part in Cowbridge Music Festival

Gladstone Primary school pupils (left) played their parts – and samba instruments! – in the recent Cowbridge Music Festival.

CHILDREN and staff from Gladstone Primary School in Barry took part in the Cowbridge Music Festival Community Outreach Programme for the third year running.

Last Monday, children in years 4 and 5 participated in samba workshops led by Patrick and Mike from 'Children's Musical Adventures', learning different 'samba rhythms' and playing samba instruments.

The whole school then gathered to watch as one of the year-5 classes performed to a captivated and enthusiastic audience.

"We are very privileged to be involved with the Cowbridge Music Festival and are very grateful to every musician that has come into our school over the last three years, bringing the gift of music to our children.

"Patrick and Mike completely inspired the children with their enthusiasm and love of samba – thank you!" said Helen Reilly, deputy headteacher.

Can you name anyone from mystery football team of 1955 season?

GEM reader Neil Holmes is seeking information about this photograph of a local Barry football team which was taken in 1955. His brother, John, turned out for the club in the 1950s and Neil would like to identify the other team members who played with John. His brother is the second person from the right in the back row. Also in the back row, third from the left, is Eric Attwood; and next to him, fourth from the left goalkeeper Ben Allport. In the front row, second from the left is John Cripps and first on the right Malcolm Morgan. The name of the team may have been Kerry Rovers (for Porthkerry, perhaps?) or Brotherhood. They used to hold team meetings at an office in Broad Street. If any GEM readers can provide information, please email: gemeditorial@tindlenews.co.uk; or phone 01446 774484 and ask for the editorial department.

Barry Round Table's festive calendar...

FOLLOWING a successful amateur photography competition, entitled 'Barry and Proud', the local Round Table have amassed images for a charity calendar that could make the perfect festive gift.

"We are planning on getting 2,500 calendars printed and sold – with every single penny raised going back into our local community," a spokesman said.

"But we need help and local sponsors to make this work! Packages start from £20 for single date on the calendar, through to main month sponsors for £150 and other packages, with a variety of advertising placements, including social media, websites and hard print, plus a Santa Sleigh route sponsorship.

"Anyone interested in sponsoring the calendar can give us a call on 01446 343031."

Councillor's reply to anonymous letter

I WOULD like to reply to the recent anonymous letter sent to me about the Bassett area of Barry.

I can confirm that after chatting to council officials, the lights at Bassett Park will now go off at 7pm, instead of 9pm.

Officers are currently looking at the lights at the park, with a view to switching them off earlier.

In respect of the drains at Upper Holton Road, mechanical sweepers and road sweepers will keep the area clean as necessary.

Music and Monologues raise £2,000

ON Thursday, October 6, to a packed audience, the Gill Davies Players put on an entertaining evening of Music and Monologues III – in aid of the All Saints Church, roof restoration appeal.

Led by Gill Davies (Barry Arts Centre, Orbit and Sherman Theatres) with two superb monologues, the varied programme included operatic and cabaret pieces along with musical soloists. Violinist Simon Carter commenced the evening by performing Romance, followed by Andrew Matthews (baritone), Louise Metcalf (mezzo-soprano) Linda Coombes (Orbit Theatre), David Hughes (Orbit Theatre), Lucy Llewellyn and Mark Thompson (Forte cabaret group), all accompanied by James Bull.

The event was a resounding success and raising £2,000 for the appeal. James Bull also performed 'Sortie in Eb' by Lefébure-Wély with a guest appearance by the 'Father of the Bride,' Father Kevin Lake.

Many thanks to all those who supported the event and donated raffle prizes making it such a success and, of course, the Gill Davies Players.

The next fundraising event is a Christmas Quiz Night on November 25 at All Saints Barry Church Hall at 7.30pm. Tickets £5 each (teams of four only) including light refreshments.

Local Soroptimists win 'Enable Award'

Ann Garvie presents the award to Pat Salt and Jackie Memory.

EACH year, Soroptimist International Wales South, which incorporates 16 clubs covering an area from Milford Haven to Abergavenny, awards clubs for the merits of their 'programme action'.

Programme action is the name given to clubs' voluntary work and there are three categories: educate, empower and enable.

SI Barry and District was delighted to receive this year's 'Enable Award' for its support of the Velindre Chick Knit Appeal.

For the past 15 years, members, with the help of family and friends, have donated over 20,000 knitted chicks to Velindre Hospital.

Volunteers at the hospital fill the chicks with eggs and sell them locally at just £1 each.

Since its inception, the appeal has raised over £1.25 million.

The award was made at a recent regional meeting at which programme action officer Jackie Memory, assisted by club president Pat Salt, gave a presentation on the members' involvement with the appeal.

Special thanks went to club member Maywin Thomas, who first brought the project to members' attention and, with unfailing enthusiasm, steered the venture over so many years.

Pat and Jackie were particularly pleased to receive the award from former international president, Ann Garvie, who was a guest speaker at the meeting.

Sully U3A tours the Royal Mint

THIRTY members of Sully U3A visited the Royal Mint Experience at Llantrisant, where they were given a guided tour to watch the process of minting coins and were given the opportunity to strike their own pound coins.

A spokesman said: "The Royal Mint was originally located in the Tower of London from the 13th century before moving to a new purpose built complex at Tower Hill in the early 19th century.

"In 1968, it was relocated to Llantrisant where today it produces five billion coins a year, not only for the UK but also for over 60 other countries.

"It was a fascinating visit giving an understanding of the vast scale of the Royal Mint's operations."

SUNRISE OVER 'BARRY BAY'

Is this sunrise over the Aegean Sea? The Bay of Naples perhaps? No, in fact it's 'The Bay of Barry' captured by local photographer Angela Magee. Angela told The GEM: "I took the photograph on the morning of October 3 – at the centre is Barry Docks Office with the backdrop of Flat Holm and Steep Holm. I managed to catch the image standing to the side of Tynewydd Road. The townscape and seascape looked more like Italy than Barry!"

Funeral Directors' 'Heroes' appeal

PENARTH Funeral Directors are supporting the Help for Heroes' Christmas Stocking Appeal.

A spokesman for the company explained: "Every year the national Help for Heroes charity runs its Christmas Stocking Appeal, 'Operation Christmas Cheer' with the aim of providing sockings, brimming with goodies to wounded, injured and sick Servicemen, Servicewomen, and veterans over the Christmas period who are in hospital, Headley Court and their Recovery Centres.

"Penarth Funeral Directors have been appointed a designated drop-off point for the public to donate items to this very worthy cause.

"There are five set items that the charity is asking to be donated for both male and female stockings. Corporate organisations complete the stockings by donating stocks of items such as DVDs, CDs, clothing and stocking fillers.

"To ensure that everyone receives the same gifts, they can only include the items that are listed below. Ninety per cent of the wounded service personnel are male so the charity kindly requests that more items for men are donated.

"For the men, the appeal requests £10 Amazon gift vouchers, 160g bag of Haribo sweet, bag of chocolate coins, shaving gel or face cream.

"For the women, it suggests £10 Amazon gift voucher, 160g bag of Haribo sweets, bag of chocolate coins, glittery nail varnish or hand cream.

"You can drop your (unwrapped) donations, of any or all of the above items specified, to Penarth Funeral Directors at 30 Hickman Road, Penarth, CF62 2AL before Friday, October 28.

"Following this date, the collection will be delivered to Help for Heroes for their Christmas elves to make up the individual stockings before being dispersed all over the country to the recovering service personnel.

If you would like to arrange an out of hours donation, please don't hesitate to contact Penarth Funeral Directors of 02920 703581 or by email enquiries@penarthfuneraldirectors.com."

Barry charity concert raises £300 for RAFA

Pictured are: Llinos, Howard Provis (organiser), Lucie, Jodi, Gareth Williams (Mayor's consort) and Charlotte Williams (Town Mayor).

BARRY RAFA recently welcomed three very talented singers Lucie Jones, Jodi Bird, and Llinos Haf Jones, to the Market Street Club.

They sang a variety of songs to an enthusiastic, if small audience – to help raise funds for the work of the Barry branch of the Royal Air Forces Association.

The branch wishes to thank the three girls for the entertainment provided and also wishes to thank the wonderful supportive audience – even if on this occasion was smaller than usual – and its guests Town Mayor Charlotte Williams and her husband Gareth for their continuing support.

On the night, over £300 was raised through the raffle, bingo, whiskey roll and the generosity of the audience. Thanks also to A G Adams and Son Funeral Home for its contribution to the auction

Anyone wishing to enquire about the social and welfare support offered by the RAF Association please contact the Welfare officer, Geoff Horton on 01446 740522 or go to www.rafa.org.uk.

If you wish to support the voluntary work of the Barry branch, please consider joining the monthly branch Lotto draw. Details from Lynda on 01446 740971 or Howard 01446 418546, or visit www.barryrafa247.co.uk. HP

'Wood to Wheel' project wins lottery cash

PORTHKERRY Country Park has been awarded £63,000 by the Heritage Lottery Fund for its project, 'Wood to Wheel – the story of a mill'.

The money will be used to stabilise sections of the Old Saw Mill in the Millwood area of the Porthkerry Country, so that it can be opened up to visitors, including local schools.

A new footpath will be constructed, the existing steps to the pool repaired, and a new walking route established along the leat.

Once completed, the ranger team will hold activities in the renovated mill – including chainsaw and traditional felling methods, shire horses demonstrations, willow weaving, and wood turning. Ten schools have already signed up to take part and two event days are planned.

The team at Porthkerry are now appealing to anyone who remembers the mill when it was in use either as a saw mill, or as a scout hut, or who have any old photos of the site.

An open evening will be held in the Forest Lodge at Porthkerry Country Park on Thursday, October 20 at 6.30pm to discuss the project.

Resident is baffled after her possessions vanish

Stacey was amazed that no one had contacted her brother, but was told by the official that because there was no MoT or tax on the vehicle the council had decided it had been abandoned. In fact, those were the very reasons her brother had taken it off the road.

Stacey points out that the housing officer gave her the key and told her to find out what it was for – and, acting in good faith, she did.

To her knowledge, no one from the council knocked on her door or the doors of her neighbours to check whether anyone knew who was using the garage.

She thinks the council should return the car without a charge, and compensate her for the possessions that were taken, including the children's paintings, which are of sentimental value.

Mike Ingram, operational manager for public housing, told The GEM it was "an unfortunate situation", but insisted the keys had not been provided by the housing team.

"The garages on Claude Road are not adjacent to the properties on Woodstock Close and are not connected in any way. According to the council's records, this particular garage had been empty for a considerable amount of time.

"The garage had not been rented to the previous tenant of Ms Edros' current home; our housing team did not provide the keys to the garage, and nor did they tell the tenant that a garage was included in her tenancy.

"Ahead of the garage being rented to another of our tenants in September, the locks were changed. When this work was undertaken, the car and other belongings were discovered.

"The car inside was removed and placed into storage for 28 days and last week, having received no contact from anyone in the three weeks since the locks had been changed, the council's waste management team cleared the other items."

He added: "This is an unfortunate situation but as Ms Edros was not provided with any keys by the Vale of Glamorgan Council and was not paying any rent for the garage, we are confident that our housing team have acted correctly."

BARMAN SPENT A YEAR AT LARGE AFTER THE THEFT OF OVER £5,000

A BARRY barman fled south Wales after stealing £5,581 from his employer, Cardiff Crown Court has heard, writes AJ SICLUNA.

Marcus Phillips (30) ended up working in a bar in Bodmin and was at large for some time, said prosecutor Ieuan Bennett.

Phillips, formerly of Broad Street, Barry, was jailed for 15 months, after admitting charges of theft and failure to surrender to his bail.

Passing sentence, Recorder Jeremy Jenkins pointed out that Phillips had been involved in the breach of a high degree of trust and there had also been planning.

Mr Bennett said that the defendant had been employed as a barman at the Waterguard in Harbour Drive, Cardiff Bay, which was run by Samuel Smith Brewery.

He had a good relationship with the managers, David Pritchard and Carrie Weaver and received temporary promotion when they went on annual leave in August 2014. He was given the key to the safe and was responsible for paying in takings to the bank.

When the pair returned in September, Phillips was nowhere to be seen, there was a mess in the office and the police were called.

Altogether, said Mr Bennett, he had taken £5,581.

He was found in a local pub in Barry and was arrested. He claimed, untruthfully, that the managers must have stolen the money.

He said he had recently spent money on furniture, on a television and on an expensive holiday.

Phillips failed to turn up for trial in August 2015 and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He was arrested on August 4 this year and initially he denied the charges and finally changed his plea.

The court heard that he had no previous convictions.

His defence counsel, Alec Small, said Phillips had "stuck his head in the sand". He said he regretted his behaviour and was ashamed.

BOOST FOR MACMILLAN

Joy Reed, Ellie Foote, Erica Oldfield and Amanda Coop.

MACMILLAN funds were boosted by a coffee morning held in Bethesda Chapel, Dinas Powys, which raised £313.29p.

Erica Oldfield, on behalf of the organisers, said: "We are really chuffed. Huge thanks to all who helped make and eat 'cashless'. We are all affected one way or another by cancer and the work of the Macmillan nurses is amazing.

"This coffee morning was just our little way of giving something back. It's great to help others who may one day need the support of these wonderful people."

Dunraven Bay in a mission to entertain

THE Vale of Glamorgan's Dunraven Bay, Southerndown, has played host to a range of pop-up events recently, including a mix of hands-on craft activities and an open-air cinema weekend.

The Crafts on the Coast Festival took place on September 4, and saw an estimated 600 visitors arrive throughout the day, enjoying plenty of rural craft displays, mini workshops, and the opportunity to buy crafts made locally – including Willow products, stained glass and up-cycled textiles.

With promises of 'fan birds' made from only one piece of wood, the creative and inquisitive visitor was not disappointed.

Visitors were then able to get stuck-in as three workshops per day were run from September 6-9, and focused on willow-weaving, stained-glass, creative writing, textiles and driftwood art.

Friday, September 16 then saw the atmospheric walk through Dunraven Gardens lead to a large cinema screen, as the open-air cinema weekend commenced with a screening of cult-classic, The Lost Boys.

The coast's setting sun leant itself well to the vampiric flick as viewers visited the bar, and surrounding stalls, to get themselves a cocktail and some tacos before the film started.

The heritage coast has historic links to pirates, and Saturday evening brought a treasure-filled treat of a film in The Goonies. As the crowd waited for the young adventurers to take them to the treasure cove, visitors were able to play pop-up crazy golf.

These pop-up events are part of a launched pilot scheme by the Vale of Glamorgan Council's Creative Rural Communities team.

A council spokesman said: "Next up, October awaits the arrival of the Slow Food Fest and the Autumn Garden Festival of Food and Drink, both of which should appeal to all foodies.

"On October 8, people can go to taste, learn, watch, smell, share, listen, drink and explore at the Slow Food Fest. With artisan food and drink producers present to give food talks and cooking demos, anyone with a love of food should go along. The event is open between 10am–4pm, and brings good food and people together.

"The Autumn Garden Festival of Food and Drink then arrives on October 15, and showcases local, small-scale independent producers of food and drink to a backdrop of music and art from local musicians/artists. This is open between 12pm–9pm at Dunraven Bay.

Surprise 'in store' for ValePlus

MEMBERS of ValePlus in Barry recently visited the local ASDA store – to receive a cheque for £200 from Mrs Lynette Griffin, towards its minibus appeal.

A spokesperson explained. "The money was raised as a result of a token collect scheme and ValePlus is very grateful to the store and its customers for supporting its appeal."

ValePlus provides lifelong learning and leisure opportunities for people with a learning disability and is based in Barry and Llantwit.

LAST CHANCE FOR YOUR SAY ON SCHOOL CONSULTATION

TWO weeks remain before the end of the Vale Council's public consultation on a proposal that could see £44m invested into two new mixed-sex secondary schools for Barry.

The consultation will decide the future of Barry Comprehensive School and Bryn Hafren Comprehensive School, and began in early September. It will close on October 17.

A total of £11.5m has been earmarked for new facilities and investment into the buildings on the current Bryn Hafren School site and £32.5m for a new school building and a centre of behavioural excellence on the Barry Comprehensive School site.

Coun Lis Burnett, cabinet member for regeneration and education, said: "We know that both parents and pupils are passionate about the future of English-medium schooling in Barry and so are urging everyone who has not already done so to have their say before the consultation closes next month."

If there is support from parents and pupils then the new schools, which will replace the existing single sex Barry Comprehensive and Bryn Hafren Comprehensive schools, would open in September 2018.

The consultation is open to all interested parties, with a focus on parents, pupils, and staff.

Responses can be submitted online at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/barryschools, in writing, or by calling the council's C1V contact centre.

Baa-ry library to receive some unusual visitors!

LIBRARIES in Barry, Cowbridge and Llantwit Major will be celebrating British Wool Week by holding events that demonstrate the wonders of wool and the sheep that produce it.

On Tuesday, October 11, Barry Library will play host to wool producers. Sheep from the Kennixton Flock will be coming along to an event at the library that will bring to life the production of wool, and highlight the different ways in which wool is used – from the sheep to the garment.

There will be spinning demonstrations, with the opportunity to try your hand at this traditional Welsh heritage craft.

Jane Bissett, shepherd, said: "I am delighted that I am going to be able to bring some sheep into an urban environment to meet people at the library.

In Wales, there are about three sheep to every one person, and sheep are vital to the agricultural industry in Wales - they are very much worth celebrating. This is the seventh year for the Campaign for Wool, and appreciation for wool is growing."

Senior librarian, Melanie Weeks, added: "Some of the local schools will be bringing classes to join us throughout the day, but everyone is very welcome to come along. The library is about community and learning, and I am sure this event will not only bring the countryside to town but also help our understanding of the role of sheep in the past and the future of Wales."

Barry Library is also the meeting venue for the Tuesday Knit and Natter group who will also be taking part. They will showcase some of the ways wool can be used in knitting and crochet, as well as being on hand for a chat about wool and their current projects.

On Wednesday, October 12, the exhibition moves on to Cowbridge Library in the

REMEMBERING THE ABERFAN DISASTER FIFTY YEARS ON

Welsh Secretary
ALUN CAIRNS
reports to GEM readers

NEXT week, Wales will remember the anniversary of one of the most horrific tragedies ever to befall any community in the UK.

Many readers will remember the events of October 21, 1966 as some of the most harrowing ever reported in their lifetime.

Others, born later, may be only dimly aware of the grim significance of the phrase 'Aberfan Disaster'.

This week, I visited the valley community of Aberfan, only 13 miles from the Vale, to speak to those who remember the catastrophe first hand.

You might be able to imagine a wall of wet rock and shale cascading down the side of a valley, an industrial avalanche engulfing the school and houses below...

Those I spoke to, do not have to imagine. Neither do they have to imagine the aftermath, of finding that 144 people had died, 116 of them children.

The cruelty of fate, reflected in the timing of the collapse of the 50-year-old heap, has not been forgotten. Had the slurry slid only minutes earlier, the school day would not have yet begun, and had it started only a few hours later the school would have been closed for half term.

We can scarcely appreciate the despair that was, and is, still felt in a community that lost an entire generation in one fell swoop.

The ITV Wales documentary The Aberfan Young Wives' Club revealed in powerful personal accounts, how the families of victims had formed a self-help group of their own; the tight community of the valleys sustained them through the immediate aftermath and the longer haul to come.

Another recent news report revealed how one of the first police officers at the scene has only felt able to seek treatment for post-traumatic stress disorder in the last five years.

For relatives of those who died, the pain of the disaster goes on. The survivors and trustees of the Aberfan charity told me of how the feelings of loss and emptiness never really depart.

Everyone in Wales should take time to recognise that pain, to remember the horror and to give thanks that no similar tragedy has occurred since. I am very glad that the Welsh national football team has already visited, to bring Aberfan once more to public attention.

Importantly, we should honour the community spirit that exists in Aberfan and across Wales. The black and white 1966 news footage can still be watched on the internet, it shows the whole community racing to unearth victims.

There is no doubt that the same spirit has helped, and is helping to mend the deeper psychological scars.

Do remember Aberfan in your thoughts and prayers next week.

Round Table seeks young men to become life-savers

BARRY Round Table is urging young men aged 16-30 to join the Anthony Nolan stem cell donor register.

Anthony Nolan matches incredible individuals willing to donate their blood stem cells or bone marrow to people with blood cancer and blood disorders who desperately need lifesaving transplants.

In 1986, Round Table clubs across the UK and Ireland were instrumental in adding 100,000 new names to the Anthony Nolan register, and 30 years on, Round Table clubs are teaming up with the Anthony Nolan charity again, this time targeting young men.

Mark House, national president of Round Table, is urging young guys to get involved: "Men aged 16-30 are the most in demand as stem cell donors but they make up just 15 per cent of the Anthony Nolan register.

"Round Table clubs were instrumental in getting Anthony Nolan to where it is today and as a young man's organisation I hope we can encourage more young men to join the donor register".

Ann O'Leary, head of register development at Anthony Nolan, said: "We're delighted to restart our lifesaving partnership with the Round Table. We urgently need more people, especially young men, to join the register.

"Most people have a one in 900 chance of being chosen to donate. But young men have a one in 200 chance. What many people don't realise is how simple it is to join the stem cell register – it involves filling in a form and providing a saliva sample. For those who go on to donate, about 90 per cent will donate through PBSC (peripheral blood stem cell collection).

"Our original collaboration with Round Table added a huge number of potential donors to the register. This time around we want to reach young men in particular and we look forward to seeing how the campaign takes off in the Barry area."

For those interested in finding out more about Anthony Nolan and Round Table, please go to anthonyNolan.roundtable.co.uk.

VALE MAYOR INVITES BRENDA TO TEA...

The Mayor, Coun Stuart Egan, the Mayor's consort, Mr Nigel Gibbs, Mrs Brenda Rees, and Mr Phillip Evans.

MAYOR of the Vale of Glamorgan, Coun Stuart Egan, recently invited a special visitor to the Mayor's parlour for afternoon tea.

One of the Vale's longest-serving foster carers, Brenda Rees, retired this year after 43 years' service and retains fond memories of children in her care – many of whom are still in contact with her today.

The Mayor, friends, and colleagues, joined Brenda to thank her for her unstinting care, support and friendship, and to wish her a very happy and well-deserved retirement.

Penarth news in brief

ON Thursday, October 13 at 7.30pm, Mark Davies will give a talk on James Sadler, an Oxford cook who became the first man to build and fly a hot air balloon in Oxford in 1784.

The talk will be held in All Saints Lesser Hall Penarth. All welcome, £2 entrance.

Music at lunchtime

ON Monday, October 17, Alison Dite (piano) and Phillip Heyman (viola) will be at All Saints Church, Penarth, at 1pm. Entrance is free, although a donation towards the organ restoration fund will be gratefully received. Bring your own lunch; tea and coffee provided.

Rescue helicopters celebrate first anniversary in the Vale

BRISTOW Helicopters Ltd is marking its first anniversary of handling search and rescue (SAR) operations on behalf of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency from its base in the Vale of Glamorgan.

HM Coastguard service became operational at St Athan on October 4, 2015 and statistics for the base's first year show the crew responded to around 200 taskings from the Aeronautical Rescue Coordination Centre (ARCC).

Chief Pilot Captain Olly Padbury, said: "I'd like to extend our thanks to the local communities for making us feel so welcome over the past 12 months. It's a great privilege to serve this area and we are very much looking forward to the future as part of HM Coastguard's lifesaving service.

"I am particularly pleased that we have been able to establish such positive relationships with emergency service teams north and south of the Bristol Channel. The year has brought an enormous variety of missions, from feeling our way through low cloud in the Black Mountains, to the beaches of north Devon, ferries, fishermen and Lundy Island. I am so proud of the team here at St Athan and of the service we provide."

The Bristow crews are operating with state-of-the-art helicopters, equipped with the latest search and rescue technology including night vision, mission management and increased onboard medical capabilities.

Russell Torbet, director of UK SAR, said: "It's a proud day for the SAR team at Bristow. Many years of hard work went into the preparations for taking over the service from the military, so 12 months of successful operations at St Athan is indeed a great milestone."

BUILDING CHIEF'S 1,200KM ROCKIES' CHARITY RIDE...

GETTING on his bike for charity is a regular occurrence for Bridgend construction boss Marc Jehu, but he admits that his latest charity ride, cycling 1,200km from Barcelona to Monaco for Prostate Cymru, is the biggest challenge to date.

He joined up with the team of charity cyclists in Barcelona from where they started their cycle ride, heading across the Spanish border into the south of France and eventually completing the journey in Monaco.

Many of the cyclists involved have links with Prostate Cymru, and Jehu Project Services has been delighted to continue with an ongoing partnership with the charity to deliver awareness-raising Toolbox talks to staff as part of health awareness.

Marc said: "We hope that the charity cycle ride, and the Tool box talks, will help get the message across to men of all ages working with us about the challenges of this disease and we are pleased to be supporting such a worthwhile charity. The support received has been amazing and I have raised £1,915 so far."

VALE LINES UP BUILDING EXCELLENCE AWARDS

BACK in April, LABC Cymru held the 21st South Wales Building Excellence Awards event at the Vale Resort.

Vale Council winners then went on to compete against finalists from north Wales, at the All Wales Building Excellence Awards, held at the Wales Millennium Centre.

Taylor Wimpey were Best New Large Developers and Best Conversion, for their development at Channel Heights, Rhoose

Properties for the conversion of the Pump House, Waterfront, Barry (Simon Baston from D S Properties) won the Best Conversion category.

Francois Samuel, Welsh Government, Head of Building Regulations at the Planning Directorate, and Paul Everall, LABC Chief Executive, gave out the awards.

The Vale Council's Victoria Robinson said: "We are extremely proud to have these examples of excellence in construction here in the Vale of Glamorgan.

"Our Building Control team have forged and maintained strong working relationships with the industry, to deliver and promote these examples of Best Practice.

"These awards recognise the hard work and commitment of all involved in the process."

"We would like to thank our local sponsors for continuing to support the awards at a local level. Nina Estate Agents, ACD Skip and Recycling, The Vale Resort, The Glamorgan GEM and Jewson of Barry."

The two winners will now be competing as finalists at the National Building Excellence Awards in November at Westminster Park Plaza, London.

Barry park will turn into the town's first ice rink!

CENTRAL PARK in Barry is to host the town's first-ever ice rink this winter, and will be home to a series of attractions as part of its transformation into Ice Central.

The Vale of Glamorgan Council will install an undercover rink to be situated in the park adjacent to Barry Town Hall, which will open after the big 'switch-on' of Barry's Christmas lights on November 26 at 5pm.

Ice Central will offer seasonal food, drinks and live music as well as a family friendly festive skating experience. The rink will be open for eight days and is the centrepiece of the Vale Council's winter events programme for 2016.

Coun Lis Burnett, cabinet member for regeneration and education, said: "For the past two years, we have held the hugely-popular Christmas projections in King Square.

"These two evenings have proved that the right events can attract huge numbers of people to Barry's town centre.

"What we are now doing, is building on that success with an event that lasts for a week, rather than an evening and so can be enjoyed by even more people.

"As well as providing festive fun for families from Vale and beyond we hope the event, the first of its kind in the town, will provide a boost to local traders at what we know is a very important time of year.

"The programme of events during the week, and elsewhere across the Vale during the Christmas period, is still being finalised and this is the first of many announcements. So watch this space!" she added.

Ice Central is being delivered in partnership with Mack Events, the team behind the successful GlastonBarry festival.

The Ice Central rink will open at 5.30pm on Saturday, November 26 and every day from Sunday, November 27 to Sunday, December 4.

There will be late night events on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Prices start from £3; family ticket £10.

SCOTTWROE HEARING

DO YOU HAVE DIFFICULTY HEARING?

Scott Wroe Hearing Centre is an independent, family-run hearing practice. This year, they are celebrating fifteen years in Penarth with the opening of their new state-of-the-art hearing centre.

The new centre provides safe and comfortable removal of ear wax from the auditory canal using MicroSuction, which is the preferred method of ear wax removal by medical practitioners. Using a Binocular Microscope to view the ear canal or drum, the wax is gently suctioned away with a low pressure suction device with the procedure normally taking just 15 to 30 minutes.

- ESTABLISHED IN PENARTH FOR OVER 15 YEARS
- Comprehensive aftercare plan

Local family remember a 'wonderful mother, daughter, sister, and wife'

THE Pontyclun woman who died following a collision which occurred at approximately 7am on Tuesday, October 4 on the A4232 between Junction 33 and Culverhouse Cross has been named as Debra-Claire Lewis-Jones.

Her family have issued the following statement:

"It is with a heavy heart and a pain that can't be put into words that the family of Debra-Claire Lewis-Jones announce her sudden passing.

"A wonderful mother, daughter, sister, and wife; she was our rock. She knew the answers to everything, and she knew it. Her favourite phrase was "I'm always right" and I can't recall a time when she wasn't.

"She let few people into her heart, but those she did she held dear and she held close, her family most of all. The loss of Debra-Claire will be felt further and deeper than can be explained.

"She was one of the happiest people, she laughed easily and frequently, and as her family can attest; she laughed with her whole body and soul. We will miss her.

"We would like to thank the witnesses and bystanders that called in for help as soon as the unfortunate incident happened; as well as the emergency services for their quick response, but in particular, South Wales Police for their assistance to our family.

"We'd also like to thank all the staff who have looked after and cared for Debra-Claire at University Hospital of Wales, Cardiff. Finally, we would like to express our condolences to everyone whose lives she touched and would appreciate if we could be left alone during our period of grieving, while we come to terms with such a huge loss in our lives."

• South Wales Police are appealing for any witnesses to contact them. Officers would like to speak to anybody who witnessed the collision or who stopped to provide assistance, or to anyone who may have seen the a Seat Ibiza vehicle being driven prior to the collision.

Contact the serious collision investigation unit on 101, or Crimestoppers (anonymously) on 0800 555 111; reference 1600382012.

COFFEE, CAKE – AND A FLU JAB FOR THE MAYOR!

RIGHT: Flu Champion Co-Ordinator Nurse Neil Pugh, Vale of Glamorgan Cabinet Officer Mark Petherick and the Vale Mayor.*

THE Mayor of the Vale of Glamorgan, Coun Stuart Egan, recently held a "very successful " coffee morning at Llandough Hospital – to raise funds for his two chosen charities, the Llandough Hospital Orchard Project and the Penarth and District Lesotho Trust.

The Mayor contributed with his own award-winning Welsh cakes, and would like to thank the Cardiff and Vale University Health Board, British Gas volunteers, CostCo and all who helped raise £168.

The next coffee morning will be held at Llandough Hospital Plaza on Wednesday, November 2 from 10.30am to 12 noon.

The Mayor also received his flu vaccination, courtesy of Flu Champion Co-ordinator Nurse, Neil Pugh and commented: "Free flu jabs are available from your GP, or participating local pharmacy for those who are at risk, to protect against catching flu and developing serious complications.

"Although flu can be a relatively mild illness, which gets better by itself, it can be much more serious in some people. Each year in the UK, there are deaths caused by seasonal flu."

CONFERENCE ON 'DARK SIDE OF THE SOUL'

THE need to 'flee from oneself' is the theme of a conference organised by Cynnal, the churches' counselling service.

The Archbishop of Wales, Dr Barry Morgan, is endorsing the event which takes place at Carmarthen on October 26, and said: "Christ warned that we live in poverty if we do not know ourselves. This conference is a chance to highlight such spiritual impoverishment and challenge each other to dwell with ourselves."

Anyone wishing to attend should contact the Living Room Cardiff on 029 2049 3895 to register or send an e-mail to carol.hardy@cais.org.uk.

Could you foster a rescue greyhound?

ABOVE and BELOW: Just two of the dogs currently in the care of Greyhound Rescue Wales.

A LOCAL greyhound rescue group is looking to recruit more volunteers to care for the dogs in their care.

Greyhound Rescue Wales rehomes ex-racing greyhounds, and volunteer Beverley Page from Llantwit major told The GEM: "We always have a need for homes most of all, but we are also starting up a foster scheme to help rehabilitate some of our long stay dogs.

"We are looking for super canine fosterers who will receive full support from our organisation's team of experts. This helps our dogs learn about life in a home."

A number of local residents are already fostering, and they are enjoying the experience.

Gill Jones of Pencoed said: "Being a fosterer to our first greyhound has proved to quite a privilege!

"There has been lots of support around me if needed. It has proved great for my health as I am now walking more regularly and with purpose.

"There are also groups which offer a social network with organised walks, but,the most important part for me is giving this noble breed a second chance and to be able to keep them safe".

Brenda Grove lives in Cowbridge and she had this to say: "Some people in Cowbridge will have seen my whippet, Jasper and me walking with our new friend, Carl the greyhound, whom we are fostering.

"After a bad start in life, this ex-racer was going to be shot because of a broken toe. Carl was taken in by Greyhound Rescue Wales and they found him a foster home with us.

"He arrived very nervous of everything, people, traffic, loud and unexpected noises but he is slowly adapting to a life in a home with regular walks, a comfortable bed (preferably your sofa) and plenty of TLC.

"It is very rewarding to see the difference that you can make to the well-being of an abused dog. Carl and Jasper get on well together and Carl, although large, is quite and gentle in the house.

"He is slowly learning that most people are kind and friendly and that life can be fun.

"Greyhound Rescue Wales is looking for more foster homes for dogs like Carl and I would recommend it.

"One other benefit is the increased exercise you get from the twice daily walks and, incidentally, contrary to what you might think, greyhounds do not require a lot of exercise.

"Basically, they are lazy dogs and two 20 to 30 minute walks a day with occasional free running in an enclosed field or similar will keep them happy.

"If you see us on our twice daily walks around Cowbridge, stop and talk to us and we will tell you all about it".

Greyhound Rescue Wales can be contacted on 03000123999 or via www.greyhoundrescuewales.co.uk

Welsh wine winners

THE Welsh Vineyards Association's (WVA) annual wine competition was held at Llanerch Vineyard at Hensol in the Vale of Glamorgan, and saw 42 wines entered by nine vineyards from north to south Wales.

Ten bronze and five silver awards were made, with the best wine in each class also receiving a trophy. Kerry Vale Solaris 2014 was named as overall Wine of the Competition and received the The Thomas Davies Memorial Trophy.

The expert judging panel were: Linda Johnson-Bell wine critic, author and climate change analyst; Michael Harrison international wine judge and Bibendum Fine Wine manager; and David Cowderoy, wine maker and owner of Bevtec.

Said WVA chairman, Robb Merchant: "The interest in Welsh wines is growing as the quality improves. Presently, Welsh vineyards produce around 100,000 bottles a year and this is set to double by 2020."

This Girl is a Train crash of a film...

WHEN she made her debut in Pawel Pawlikowski's provocative and compelling My Summer of Love in 2004, Emily Blunt showed some serious acting nous, but it would have taken a bold person to predict how successful her career would turn out

Breaking out in The Devil Wears Prada, Blunt has gone on to successfully navigate a multitude of genres, delivery consistently strong turns, and her latest film sees her star in the adaptation of Paula Hawkins' The Girl On The Train.

With the location moved from England to New York, Blunt plays Rachel, a commuter who sees a couple (Haley Bennet and Luke Evans) every day from the window of her train.

When Rachel sees a shocking act in the couple's garden, and learns Megan is missing, feared dead, she begins her own investigation that may uncover some shocking truths, but is hampered by her alcoholism and her infatuation with her ex-husband and his new wife (Justin Theroux and Rebecca Ferguson)...

When adapting a book for the big screen (and let's face it, there's probably few at this point that haven't gone from page to film) the makers have to satisfy two audiences – the one that hasn't read the book and is watching the film without any great level of expectation, and the one that has read the book and is keen to see if the film version can better what they've already read.

After watching The Girl On The Train (and being in the former camp), it's hard to know just who is going to emerge satisfied, as the film is a predictable, flat and oddly lifeless piece of work. Promises of a twisting, turning thriller are broken, the story hitting predictable beats and the outcome telegraphed at least halfway through (the more observant may possibly get there before that).

One of the more positive aspects of the film is the cast, who do a fairly good job with what they're given. Emily Blunt offers a decent performance but doesn't quite get under the skin of the character; Rachel is your usual unreliable witness, her version of events possibly true but clouded by her lack of sobriety and addled memories (that clear up at just the right time for the story to shift up gears) and while Blunt gives the damaged character a bruised personality, she doesn't quite feel the right fit.

Haley Bennett as the girl Rachel sees from the train is meant to be another damaged soul, her backstory of heartbreak and sadness compelling, but doesn't play into the main narrative and feels tacked into it in order to provide a little more depth and make you sympathetic to what is a slightly annoying character.

Justin Theroux and Rebecca Ferguson are perfectly adequate, he as the man trying to juggle his new life with the echoes of his past in the shape of Rachel, while Ferguson's shrew-like wife sits nicely in the story.

But what really lets the film down is the by-numbers plotting, the constant resorting to red herrings and cliches (the usually superb Allison Janney is given the role of a detective whose only job is to disregard every piece of evidence Rachel offers her under the assumption Rachel is involved).

It aims for Hitchcock-like levels of suspense, but ends up merely echoing similar films that feature the same type of plot twists and story strands (both Before I Go To Sleep and Robert Zemeckis' supernatural Hitchcock-inspired What Lies Beneath are touchstones).

It's directed with very little panache by Tate Taylor, who bathes the film in steely blues and resorts to shaky effects every time Rachel takes a drink. While the thrust of the film should be Rachel's unreliability as a witness, instead of developing that and playing it up, instead Taylor makes it perfectly clear early on that Rachel is innocent and that the hunt for the perpetrator is on.

That we only meet four characters who it could be detracts from any surprise and simply reinforces the telegraphed ending.

What strives to be a Gone Girl instead ends up something more schlocky and less refined – The Girl On The Train suffers from a severe case of leaves on the line.

VERDICT – A damp squib of a film that fails to rise above its pulpy foundations, The Girl On The Train is a disappointing effort that feels all too familiar. The cast are fair to middling, but Tate Taylor's direction is flat and the story itself reveals its mysteries far too easily to make this a far from satisfying viewing experience. Poor.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: Gone Girl (2014), Before I Go To Sleep (2014).

MP's story – part three

VETERAN MP Alan Johnson will be in Penarth on Sunday, November 6, to discuss the third volume of his memoirs with local MP Stephen Doughty at All Saints Church, Victoria Square, beginning at 2.30pm.

In the first volume, This Boy, Johnson described being brought up by his sister in the slums of London's West End. Volume two, Please Mister Postman, covered his time as a postman and union official.

In this latest volume, The Long and Winding Road, Johnson moves on to his political career, which culminated in being appointed Home Secretary in 2009.

Tickets are now available from Griffin Books at £10 each, including refreshments and a discount on book purchases.

Pink Floyd sound in Llantwit

FORMER Llantwit Major resident Daniel Bowles, will bring his London-based band What The Floyd? to recreate the sights and sounds of a Pink Floyd concert at Llantwit Major Rugby Club on Saturday, October 29.

The Australian guitarist's band has a reputation for authentic recreation of the Pink Floyd sound. Using high technology and a blazing light show, their current set is based on the legendary 1994 P.U.L.S.E. tour.

Daniel said: "I've always been fascinated by Pink Floyd's music and I decided to gather together some of the best players in the business to help me bring it to life.

"We're going to be touring a lot in 2017 and it made sense to kick things off in my home town. I can promise everyone who comes along that the club has not seen anything quite like this before!"

Tickets are £10 each, in advance from www.whatthefloyd.com and on the door (subject to availability) for £12.

Brexit countdown: 'Pound has rough times ahead'

THE harsh reality of Brexit has been reflected by the pound becoming the worst performing currency in 2016.

Last Friday's flash crash caused the value of the pound to plummet an astonishing 8 per cent in a mere 240 seconds.

The pound has now fallen by 14 per cent since late May and by 19 per cent since the start of the year. It is the worst-performing major currency in 2016.

After a long period of stability, the damage is done and the British economy has now slipped to sixth from fifth place in the world. That is not good news for Theresa May, as she sets out to prove that the British economy is big and vigorous enough to stand on its own two feet and does not need to be in the European single market.

How much further can the pound fall? Last weekend, some forecasters mentioned the feared words "parity with the dollar". I think such talk is too pessimistic. The British economy, for the moment at least, is still the best performing in Europe and has so far shrugged off the threat even of a 'hard' Brexit, which is what we are now heading for.

The Bank of England's swift action to cut interest rates and supply liquidity has so far worked in keeping consumer spending up. A weak pound is good for exports and British exporters have actually been responding.

The service sector is also contributing. However, it will be a long time before the pound gets back to its pre-Brexit level, if it ever does.

It is surprising how many professional people, including bankers and economic journalists here in the UAE have been of the opinion that Britain will not go through with leaving the EU.

The fear now, as Jeremy Warner wrote in The Daily Telegraph, is that "in markets there are growing fears that the (the UK's) heart will be allowed to rule the head, leading to an irrational and economically harmful outcome".

Theresa May's message at the Conservative Party conference of a relatively harsh Brexit and first serious economic remarks have sent the wrong signals and went down badly overseas. The flash crash has shown just how dangerous that can be.

The pound has some rough times ahead before Brexit finally happens. To us British working overseas, it is to our financial advantage.

I note Liam Fox's comments last month: "We are not leaving Europe; we are re-joining the rest of the world. I am optimistic about the future. My message is simple: Britain is open for business, and will be more and more so. We now have a whole department at the heart of government whose sole task is to open markets and boost flows of trade and investment which will promote both UK and global prosperity".

The UAE has roundly disproven the doubts of those who scoffed at its vision two or three decades ago. Similarly, I hope that the United Kingdom will confound the sceptics and become the world's brightest beacon of open markets.

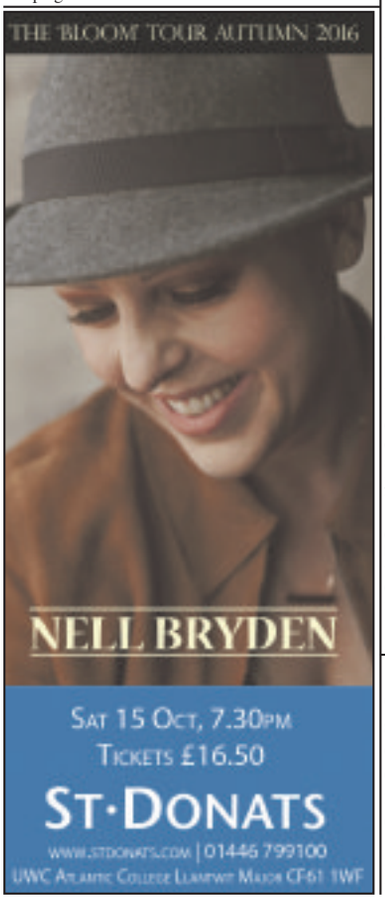
YMCA Barry joins mental stigma battle

A VALE of Glamorgan youth charity has thrown its support behind a major new mental health awareness campaign, as YMCA research reveals more than one in three young people with mental health difficulties experience stigma.

YMCA Barry is backing #IAMWHOLE, an anti-stigma campaign run by NHS in partnership with YMCA, on social media and through a series of mental health-themed events.

The #IAMWHOLE campaign was launched on Monday, World Mental Health Day, by UK hip-hop artist Jordan Stephens. National research compiled by YMCA for the campaign found that, of the young people who say they experience stigma around their mental health difficulties, more than a third (37 per cent) say it happens at least once a week; and 54 per cent say it originates from their own friends.

As part of its support, YMCA Barry, which has operated in Barry since 1890, is asking residents, staff and supporters to tweet photographs of themselves using the #IAMWHOLE hashtag with the campaign circle logo painted on their hands.



Welsh business activity up following Brexit

BUSINESS activity in Wales rose at the fastest rate since June 2015 in September, following the Brexit vote.

Wales' PMI – or purchasing managers' index – registered 56.2 in September, up from 54.9 in August. A reading of above 50 signifies expansion in business activity, while a reading below signals contraction.

The increase in business activity was mainly driven by a rise in new orders. Consequently, firms continued to hire new staff, although the rate of job creation was slightly weaker than in August.

The weak pound continued to affect businesses in September, with input costs continuing to rise. As a result, companies increased their selling prices to offset higher costs. The Lloyds Bank PMI, is the leading economic health-check of UK regions.

It is based on responses from manufacturers and services businesses about the volume of goods and services produced during September compared with a month earlier.

Allan Griffiths, regional director for SME Banking, Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking, said: "Operating conditions in the Welsh private sector continued to improve in September following an initial moderation in the aftermath of the Brexit vote.

"While that is good news for companies across Wales, it's essential that businesses plan carefully so that they are prepared for any challenges that may occur over the coming months."

COLOURS OF AUTUMN... A REMINDER OF JOBS TO DO IN THE GARDEN

NOVEMBER is all about compost and getting everything ready for winter. Leaves have finally fallen and most plants will have become dormant.

In fact, clearing leaves and cutting back dead growth is top of the agenda this month – which is great news because leaves and garden debris are perfect ingredients for homemade compost.

While the glories of summer have long passed, there should still be lots of interest in your garden.

Look out for the bright berries of the Cotoneaster, or the colourful evergreen foliage of the various holly varieties, and, of cours,e there is always the stunning Dogwood (Cornus).

Dogwoods are reliable and hardy shrubs that not only provide a luscious leafy backdrop to summer flowers but have a rainbow of leaf colours through the autumn and then go on to reveal brilliant wand-like stems.

During winter, the brightly coloured stems of dogwoods catch the sunlight to create dazzling displays and although small gardens might only have space for a single plant, in can be positioned where the low winter sun will shine through.

With vibrant stems of intense red, orange and golden yellow it's no wonder varieties have been given names such as Winter Beauty and Midwinter Fire.

In the summer, many shrubby dogwoods carry clusters of tine flowers, usually a creamy-white colour, which often lead on to form dense heads of white berries in autumn.

Dogwoods grow well in almost any soil and are best in a sunny position.

As the first winter frosts arrive, there are still a few jobs to be done before bedding the garden down for winter – as the gardening experts explain.

Winter is on its way. Leaves are falling rapidly, and wind and rain are on the increase.

Tender plants will need protecting from frost, gales and freezing rains.

Move plants into the greenhouse, or into a sheltered spot, but if you can't, it is worth wrapping plants or pots in situ with gardening fleece. Remember winter can be a tough time for birds in terms of water and food, so keep supplies well topped up.

The garden begins to wind down in November, but there are still gardening jobs to do this month to prepare for winter.

Now is the time to move any tender plants into the greenhouse, conservatory or porch to shelter them as frosts can cause serious damage to plants.

RHS

You should also protect any delicate or exotic plants from winter weather with straw and hessian on the crown and around the trunk.

Bulbs need to be in the ground over winter to flower in spring. Plant spring bulbs like tulips and daffodils now along with other spring-flowering plants like pansies and wallflowers.

Another important winter gardening job is to stake tall plants, climbers and young trees. The stakes should be sturdy enough to withstand strong winds.

David Domoney, TV gardener and presenter

Plant tulip bulbs in pots and borders and cover them with at least twice their depth of soil or compost.

Take hardwood cuttings from healthy fruit bushes, including currants, blueberries and gooseberries and prune autumn-fruiting raspberries to the ground after harvesting.

THESE CREEPY CLOWNS ARE NOT SO FUNNY

by Andy Johnstone

When America sneezes, Britain catches a cold.

The latest craze to descend on UK shores from across the pond is the 'creepy-clown' phenomenon, where someone affects the guise and make-up of the famous style of circus performer, but with a sinister motive.

Creepy clowns lurk in public places or leap out at people, sometimes children, or the elderly, causing distress and distrust of the generally benign style of entertainer.

A spokesperson for South Wales Police is reminding people that dressing up as clowns, or in costumes, to frighten others intentionally, will have consequences.

The spokesperson added: "I can confirm that, force-wide, we have received approximately 30 calls relating to clown incidents over the weekend."

The spokesperson said that there were no specific figures for Bridgend or the Vale, but reports have reached The GEM of creepy-clown incidents in Llantwit Major, St Athan and Brackla.

The spokesperson said: "We would like to remind people that this behaviour can cause concern and worry, particularly to young children and the elderly, and they may end up committing an offence."

Friends Against Scams are out to foil the fraudsters

FOLLOWING recent revelations that a Porthcawl resident came close to being scammed out of a large sum of money by a convincing phone scam, Shared Regulatory Services (SRS) is supporting the Friends Against Scams initiative in order to raise awareness of the financial and emotional impact of mass marketing scams.

Shared Regulatory Services is a partnership between Bridgend, Cardiff, and the Vale of Glamorgan Council, and has taken steps to support residents at risk of being scammed.

A spokesman said: "This move comes after a woman from Porthcawl received a telephone call from someone claiming to be from Talk Talk. She granted the caller remote access to her computer after being told there had been unusual activity on her modem.

"The caller said someone had tried to hack into it, and so the modem would need to be changed. The fraudster eventually offered £200 as an apology for the problem.

"The caller then asked the resident to log into her bank account, where she would see that £3,200 had mistakenly been put into her account. The caller claimed to have made a terrible mistake and convinced the resident to send a cheque for £3,000.

"Her suspicions became aroused, however, when the caller asked the resident to go to the post office and send a money order, in dollars, to Georgia.

"She went to her bank's local branch, where they confirmed that no such refund had gone into her account.

"As a result, the resident has since refused calls from the caller, who she had thought was representing Talk Talk, and has taken other sensible steps: getting the bank to monitor her account; adding anonymous call barring to her telephone; having her computer checked over to confirm there is no malware on it."

Friends Against Scams aims to protect people from becoming victims of scams by empowering communities to 'take a stand against scams'.

Dads bare their feelings for Ty Hafan hospice calendar

Dads Brad Watson, Gary Footman, Lee Morgan and Ben Jones.

BRAVE Tŷ Hafan dads have stripped off for a nude calendar – to raise funds and awareness for the Vale-based charity that cares for their family and supports them through their darkest times.

As well as raising a few smiles, the calendar – launched at the Tramshed in Cardiff last Thursday – holds a deeper meaning for all the dads involved, who revealed the reality of raising a child with a life-limiting condition and how they cope when their child sadly dies.

Gareth Jenkins, Tŷ Hafan male support worker, has led the project alongside photographer, Paul Fears, who is also a Tŷ Hafan dad:

"Dads are often expected to remain strong for the rest of the family, but this calendar shows that behind their tough exterior, they feel vulnerable, too," said Gareth.

"We hope the public not only have smiles on their faces when looking at our pictures, but also a better understanding of what life can be like for our dads and why it's vital that they don't face their struggles alone."

Cowbridge Art Society

ON Thursday, October 13, the Cowbridge Art Society will have a demonstration of creating a portrait in charcoal by art tutor Sheila Bryant.

On October 20, Pembrokeshire artist Graham Hadlow will give a demonstration of painting a landscape in watercolour.

The society meets on Thursdays (7pm-9pm) at the Old Hall, Cowbridge. Visitors and new members most welcome; see www.cowbridgeartsociety.com.

Nigel Owens recalls the dark days as he supports Samaritans

SAMARITANS Cymru launched their 2015/16 'Impact Report' for World Mental Health Day on Monday, October 10, with the support of respected Welsh international rugby referee, Nigel Owens MBE.

NIGEL OWENS.

The report demonstrates how Samaritans Cymru helps people who are struggling to cope in Wales, from reaching out to high-risk groups and communities to their partnerships with prisons, schools, hospitals and rail staff.

This is alongside their ongoing engagement with Welsh Government and the National Assembly to influence policy and legislation surrounding suicide prevention in Wales.

Health Secretary Vaughan Gething AM, said: "I'd like to thank Samaritans for their excellent and long-standing work, particularly around suicide prevention."

"We take the issue of mental health and well-being extremely seriously. Our strategy, 'Together for Mental Heath', is designed to improve the mental well-being of all people in Wales. We want to ensureanyone who needs to access high quality, mental health services can do so and that they are treated with the dignity and respect they deserve."

Samaritans Cymru are emphasising the importance of men talking about their emotional and mental health with the latest ONS statistics which reveal 81 per cent of all suicides in Wales in 2014 were men.

Nigel Owens said: "I'm proud to be supporting the Samaritans Cymru 2015/16 Impact Report.

"With suicide rates for men being the highest since 1981 in Wales, I am right behind their aim of emphasising the importance of men talking about their emotional and mental health.

"In the past, when I was suffering with mental health issues surrounding my dealing with my sexuality, I wish I had been more aware of charities like Samaritans, who are always there to help.

"If I had, perhaps I wouldn't have ended up in such a dark place and so close to losing my life."

In Wales, Samaritans has nine branches which manage their emotional support service. The demand for the service is ever increasing – in 2015, it took a call every three minutes in Wales and received 175,767 calls for help.

Sarah Stone, executive director for Samaritans in Wales, said: "Suicide is now the single biggest killer of men aged under 45 in the UK. \

"We need to get better at tackling the social issues men in Wales face.

"We need to open up a dialogue in which men feel more able to talk about mental health and suicidal feelings – and we especially need to target men in mid-life, living in situations of deprivation."

PUPILS ARE MAKING A MINT!

CHILDREN from Llancarfan Primary School discovered how to spot fake coins during an exciting day out to the Royal Mint Experience in Llantrisant.

They weighed, measured and examined, deciding whether the coins were the genuine article or cunning forgeries.

After the workshop, the children looked around the Mint and its museum, with each minting their own individual 2016 one pound coin.

This was especially exciting, as with the advent of the new 12-sided pound coin next year, the mint will not be putting 2016 coins into circulation.

Thanks to all at the Mint for a fab day out and for Edwards coaches for getting us there.

Local companies show Aerospace expertise

SIX Welsh companies, including St Athan Aerospace Business Park and Spectrum Technologies, Bridgend, will be showcasing the best that the Welsh aerospace industry has to offer at MRO Europe – the largest event of its kind outside north America.

Some 20 per cent of the UK's maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) business is placed in Wales. MRO Europe, which this year takes place at RAI Amsterdam from October 18-20, is the annual highlight for the commercial air transport MRO industry and is seen as the place to forge new partnerships.

As a direct result of participating in the event in 2015, Welsh businesses scooped a collective £2.8 million of deals.

Attended by the likes of Airbus, Boeing, BA and Bombardier, last year, the trade conference received over 6,400 visitors to the event – the largest in its history.

For the fifth consecutive year, leading names from the Welsh aerospace industry will come together on the Welsh Government stand to promote their expertise and services and highlight that Wales is a great place to do business.

Redundancy fears at British Airways, Rhoose

AS The GEM was going to press, an unconfirmed report said that staff at British Airways Maintenance Cardiff Ltd (BAMC), based at Cardiff Airport, may be planning 66 redundancies at the engineering base in Rhoose.

The caller, who did not wish to be identified, said that the announcement was made to one shift last night, with further meetings scheduled for Wednesday, October 12.

Full details are sketchy, but various sources expressed concern that staff were, he said, being made redundant whilst new contractors were being taken on, including for a retrofit of British Airways' Boeing 747s with wi-fi.

The GEM asked BA for comment, and a spokesperson replied: "We are consulting with our colleagues and union at BAMC about restructuring proposals to ensure we continue to deliver a sustainable and competitive service.

"While the consultation continues we are not able to discuss further details."

Vale MP Alun Cairns said: "I have requested a meeting with BA to seek reassurances for the long-term future of the site in light of the planned staff reduction. I will also be pressing BA to provide more detail regarding their decision to make technicians redundant.

"The aircraft maintenance skills that exist here in the Vale are second to none. My priority will be to ensure that the next generation of aircraft are maintained here in the Vale following the retirement of older planes from service."

The GEM will report further next week.

Are you affected by these proposed redundancies? If so, please contact this newspaper at gemeditorial@tindlenews.co.uk including your name, address and telephone number.

BARRY MEN'S FORUM ARE TOLD ALL ABOUT UFOS...

MIKE CHEESEMAN gave a thought provoking talk with numerous photographs and film of Unidentified Flying Objects, the definition of which is 'A mysterious object seen in the sky for which it is claimed no orthodox scientific explanation can be found', often supposed to be a vehicle carrying extra-terrestrial beings.

These sightings are not just recent – there are records of them going back to the Egyptians, 3000 years ago, referred to in carvings and papayas writings.

The famous astrologer, Edmund Haley, first recorded 'Halley's Comet', also recorded in 1556 a UFO.

Mike said in the last two years there have been 720 unexplained UFOs, and many more that have been explained as lights, clouds, aircraft and numerous hoaxes, but even so this left a large number of unexplained sightings, which left him convinced that some may be really from outer space.

There are also thousands of alleged abductions, with some people being taken for short periods and others for weeks, and when they have been returned many of them have high levels of radiation.

Also others claim of seeing 'aliens', evidence is very slim to be able to prove.

The members agreed that although there were many unexplained claims, most were sceptical of their veracity.

At the next meeting on October 20, Mr Nick John Rees – will be talking about marine art.

The Barry Men's Forum meet at the Trinity Presbyterian Church Hall, every Thursday morning starts at 10.15am and finishes by noon. New members are welcome, and charge is £2 per meeting, which includes light refreshments.

'Extended tick season' warning from Met Office

THE Met Office has predicted that temperatures will rise above 20°C this month, making it one of the warmest autumns in recent years.

However, according to experts, this also means that the tick season will be longer than usual, with the tiny parasites more likely to continue breeding and feeding in the UK's grassland and wooded areas.

Dogs and their owners are most at risk as they are more likely to venture into the countryside on walks.

Mark Spurlock of Bob Martin warns: "Ticks may seem harmless because of their size, but a small number carry diseases, like Lyme disease and Babesiosis, which can be very serious for animals and humans.

"We would always recommend prevention, so pet owners should be aware they need to continue their tick control longer this year because of the warmer weather.

"We expect the tick season to extend until the end of October, so protect yourself and your family."

Veterans' centre that will honour Barry Marine 'Woody' is nearing completion

by Andy Johnstone

As if to emphasise the need for a veterans' centre, and for improved communication to former HM Armed Forces personnel, news reaches The GEM of just such a project in the Vale.

Readers will recall a piece in the edition of September 22 featuring Robert Adams, a Barry resident and veteran, and his call for a veterans' centre.

Dr David Trotman, chairman of Woody's Lodge Management Board (WLMB), contacted The GEM about work to establish a centre for veterans at RNR HMS Cambria.

WLMB comprises six veterans and one civilian, and since last year, has been working to open the centre, which is named after and commemorates the life of local Royal Marine, Paul 'Woody' Woodland.

Woody, a member of the Special Boat Service, died in October 2012 during a training exercise whilst preparing for deployment to Afghanistan.

Dr Trotman said: "Initial analysis shows that there are more than 5,000 veterans residing in Barry alone with over 60 per cent of these residents, now over the age of 65 years, many of whom are possibly facing welfare, health and social problems.

"Woody's Lodge will be there to offer companionship and direct signposting to agencies and organisations that offer required skilled support.

The concept for the project has come from the hangar floor, engine room, and the sentry box, in that it is based on the needs, experiences and wishes of veterans currently living within the Vale.

Woody's Lodge will provide support for veterans in three main areas:

a safe, quiet, secure and happy environment for veterans to meet, share experiences and build friendships, "to pull up a sandbag have a brew".

The late Paul 'Woody' Woodland, a Royal Marine, after whom the veterans' drop-in centre is named.

Woody's Lodge will also provide the space for activities such as art, music and gardening, if veterans so wish to join, to which they will be welcomed free of charge.

Woody's Lodge will provide office accommodation and private spaces, free of charge, to veteran support agencies. Some 22 organisations, including NHS services, have expressed an interest in being based at Woody's Lodge and have a fixed foothold within the locality.

Woody's Lodge also provides the agencies working there to talk and liaise with each other in order to work more closely together and provide 'joined up' support for veterans.

Dr Trotman said: "The WLMB wishes to express its indebtedness to the Royal Navy staff and Command at RNR HMS Cambria, as well the Reserve Forces and Cadets' Association, Wales, in allowing access to former naval-rating housing at the station, and allowing the group to undertake the required refurbishment of the building and getting it up to a serviceable standard."

The building will include a suite of four office spaces for staff, volunteers and agency workers to meet with veterans, and on the ground-floor, a kitchen, loos and a large social space – former living rooms – for people to meet and chat.

Woody's Lodge will be open for veterans between 10am and 2pm Monday to Thursday for 48 weeks a year.

Dr Trotman added that, with help of veterans from the Royal Corps of Signals, WLMB has been able to establish disabled access to and from Woody's Lodge.

WLMB is looking at the issue of transport, such as a pick-up service around Barry for those who have difficulty in getting around.

There is also the potential to run a shuttle service to and from Cadoxton Station, for veterans who wish to travel from Cardiff, the Valleys and Bridgend.

The WLMB and project has gained support from the Vale Council-led Armed Forces' Covenant Group, and further information will be released as developments occur.

Learn CPR and save a life

READERS will recall the quick reactions of Llantwit Major's Tom Wood (The GEM September 29), who performed cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) on a gentleman in Galton's barber in the town.

Aged just 14, Tom, whom learnt his CPR skills in the Air Cadets, kept the man alive until the professionals arrived.

Tom learnt young, and Welsh Hearts/Calonnau Cymru – the heart charity for Wales – will run a drop-in session on CPR training at the National Assembly this Monday, October 17, from 10.30 to 4pm for anyone aged 10 or over. Youngsters should attend with parents or guardians, or their teachers.

Those attending can learn basic life-saving skills including how to perform CPR and use a defibrillator, so that, if the time comes, a life can be saved.

All people attending and completing the training will receive a certificate, and light liquid refreshments are available.

For more information and to book a place go to wwww.welshhearts.org/training or call 02920 647735.

'Lavernock could join Penarth'

SAYS COUNCILLOR

A PROPOSAL that Lavernock become a part of Penarth, has been mooted by a long standing Penarth councillor, who sees several benefits for residents if they came into the town.

Coun Ernest, who has been a town councillor for many years, and is a former Penarth Mayor and past chairman of the Vale of Glamorgan Council, said this week that Lavernock Park, (or Cosmeston as some prefer to name it), had gained nothing from being "lumped in" with Sully, and that most residents saw their future within Penarth, not least with schools and shopping.

Coun Ernest, who represents the adjoining Plymouth Ward of Penarth continued: "Having represented Lavernock in the past for a number of years, I was acutely concious that residents in the large and very popular estate contributed heavily to the precept of Sully Council, yet never had anything in return for their council tax levies.

"Unfortunately the powers of smaller councils are relatively limited and that may be why no facilities were ever provided in this well-liked residential area with over 1,000 residents.

"Even today, some five years later, Lavernock is no better off under Sully than some much smaller villages in the rural Vale.

"I am very concious also that the local councillors for that area try hard to be effective, but they suffer from a lack of funding and political representation at higher levels, and that does not help them one bit", the councillor continued.

"If Lavernock Park (and only Lavernock Park) were to come into Penarth, residents would undoubtedly benefit from improved representation and undoubted investment from a much better resourced local council, and they may well want to consider this at a time when they are threatened by yet more housing developments, that threaten to obliterate the boundaries between Penarth and Sully with nothing to show in return," he concluded.

Christmas Party Guide

Variety is the spice of Christmas with a huge choice of places to enjoy your party!

The most wonderful time of the year – Christmas – is approaching once more, and that means the office party season.

While the office, club or society party can be the highlight of the year – it can also be a disaster unless it is held at the right venue with good food.

Well in the Vale and Bridgend there are no excuses. The choice of venues, restaurants, pubs and hotels is hugely varied, and they can cater for Christmas parties to suit groups of varying sizes.

There are lots of places which offer traditional fare – turkey and Christmas pudding – which remain as popular as ever.

But for those looking for something a bit more daring and exotic, many venues now offer a new twist on the basic menu with other options designed to satisfy the more demanding palate.

But whichever meal you prefer, the important thing is that top quality foodstuffs are used and that they are properly cooked and beautifully presented.

The ambience at Christmas events is also crucial – roaring log fires and crackers may be a bit of a cliché – but it's what most people expect.

Many hotels and restaurants spend a lot of money on really top class decorations which are a world away from the tinsel and tack of yesteryear.

A room beautifully decorated in swags of greenery, coloured berries and subtly lit with candlelight is probably the finest setting for celebrating the most important event in the calendar.

It is worth asking whether your venue is making efforts to create a good Christmas atmosphere with decorations and festive hits.

So, with good food, fine wines and the right setting, the only other ingredient necessary for a great night out is the company.

It's a great opportunity to relax with colleagues you work with for 12 months of the year and don't get a proper chance to discuss things other than work-related topics.

Lots of Christmas get-togethers are staged by organisations – ranging from choirs, art societies, WIs, charity fundraisers and sporting groups – in fact any organisation which brings people together.

Most organise a Christmas event which gives members, who perhaps only see each other once a week, a chance to enjoy each other's company in more relaxing circumstances.

Yes, there's plenty to be said for the Christmas party. Just make sure you ensure that yours is as good as it can be by hiring the right venue for you and your group – whether it be a cosy country inn or a grand hotel where everyone can really dress up.

The choice is yours – and it's a wide one.

DON'T MISS OUT ON YOUR FIRST CHOICE VENUE

TIME is running out to book the first choice venue for the office Christmas party.

Hotels and restaurants in the Vale and Bridgend have got a good reputation for providing not only good festive meals, but entertainment as well.

So it is time to make a decision.

It is best for someone to volunteer to organise things, and consult with colleagues on what would make a really great night out.

What sort of party do your staff fancy? A sit down meal, so that working colleagues can enjoy a relaxing evening? Or perhaps the people at your work place want the excitement of a disco or a themed evening like an 80s night?

Ladies are often keen to have a dance – some of the chaps less so, and need a little encouragement for their annual spin on the dance floor.

Some venues do party evenings that cater for lots of companies on the same night.

Once you've made your decision, it's time to lift the phone and make that all important booking – now, before you miss out!

Carer is in line for Nurse of the Year award

A BRIDGEND-based care home manager is in the running for a major award.

Angela Rees spent many years working as a qualified mental health nurse before moving into home management. She now works for Integra Community Living Options, who have a number of care homes across south Wales for adults aged over 18.

Angela is in charge of Integra's Ty Newydd care home in Roath, Cardiff, which cares for a small number of women aged 18 to 65 with mental health issues.

Her dedicated approach to caring has earned Angela a place in the 2016 Wales Care Awards at City Hall in Cardiff on Friday, October 21. The event, organised by Care Forum Wales is known as the social care organisers and honours people who have the X-Factor in social care.

Angela, who has been shortlisted in the Nurse of the Year category of the awards sponsored by Ontex UK, is originally from Aberdare and began her training as a mental health nurse at the age of 18 at the Whitchurch Hospital in Cardiff, qualifying three years later, and has spent her entire career in either the health or social care sectors.

PLEA FOR POPPY APPEAL VOLUNTEERS

THE Royal British Legion (RBL) is asking for volunteers for the 2016 Poppy Appeal from October 24 to November 12.

Anyone – with military service or not – interested in volunteering should contact Andrew Reekie, Bridgend branch of the RBL, on 01656 669988.

Treat in store for Penarth Ramblers

ON a superb sunny autumnal morning, Geraint from Penarth and District Ramblers played host to a group of 10 walkers who joined him at the Twyn in Dinas Powys, for a circular ramble to Cosmeston Country Park, and back again.

Station Road steps and a narrow walkway led them to the busy A4055 and underneath the Coffinmakers Railway Bridge, named after a coffin makers business that used to be nearby.

After crossing a stile onto Sully Road and heading south, avoiding the traffic before entering a field behind Home Farm's listed stone barn and large dung heap, a farm track led on to a muddy gateway and downhill into Cosmeston Country Park.

After morning refreshments at the ruined medieval dovecote and turning northwards along Mile Road to reach Old Cogan Hall Farm, a treat was in store as the tiny church dedicated to St Peter, which fell into disuse during the 18th century but was lovingly restored by John, Marquis of Bute, was open.

Over the years, there have been many alterations but the small chancel is Saxon, while the chancel arch and nave and font relate to the Norman era. Within the lower part of the church walls are some fine examples of herring bone masonry and above the altar is the delightful bronze reredos which was presented by Lord Bute and is an adaptation of the Transfiguration of Christ. However, the church is sadly infected with damp, which is creeping into the walls and floors, and the Friends of St Peter's are endeavouring to raise funds to alleviate the problems and keep this historic building alive for years to come.

Re-joining Sully Road, a narrow lane led to the road and past the old St Cyres School, now earmarked for building houses, and joining the Ash Path down to the Murch, they retraced their steps back to Dinas for refreshments at the Cross Keys Inn.

On October 15, meet at 9.30am at Cogan Leisure Centre for a seven-mile moderate walk taking in Castell Coch and The Wenallt; contact Geraint on 029 2051 5278.

On October 19, the mid-week walk will leave Cogan at 7.30am in order to catch the 9.20am bus from Chepstow to Monmouth followed by the 17-mile hard linear walk back to Chepstow; contact William on 07528 701 952.

To follow the group please log onto www.penarthramblers.wordpress.com or Facebook.

Students show pupils around their school

RIGHT: It is amazing what you can find in the lab.

BARRY Comprehensive School's students and staff were delighted to welcome visitors to the school's annual year-6 open evening recently.

The year-5 and 6 students, their parents/guardians and families were treated to a range of demonstrations, experiments and workshops.

The enthusiastic future students joined in as they explored the classrooms, labs and workshops. The visitors were able to chat to current students about their experiences at school as well as talking to teachers about the range of subjects and support on offer.

Headteacher, Gerard McNamara said: "The open evening was a great success. Following on from our second year of record-breaking GCSE results, visitors were interested to find out what Barry Comprehensive has to offer. We look forward to seeing our year-5 and 6 visitors again as they prepare for their move to secondary education."

THE WATERFRONT, BARRY — HFU Reference 136299

Hafod

Hafod Housing Association, together with The Vale of Glamorgan Council, announce the new development of ten homes at The Waterfront, Barry.

Bids are invited from Homes4U members with local work, family or life connections to Barry.

The development will consist of:

- ten, two-bedroom houses, suitable for up to three people
  Rent £96.87 per week, plus service charge to be confirmed.

Priority will be given to:

- applicants, including existing council and housing association tenants, in accommodation that is not affordable; or is unsuitable for their needs;
- applicants with a good tenancy history as references will be required;
- applicants with no previous convictions for anti-social behaviour or drug or alcohol-related issues.

To apply call the hotline, e-mail us at HOMES4U@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk or apply in writing to:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT AN INSPECTOR APPOINTED BY the Welsh Ministers
WILL ATTEND AT
The Boardroom, Docks Office, Barry Docks, Barry CF63 4RT
AR
Tuesday 17th January 2017 at 10 a.m.
TO HOLD A PUBLIC LOCAL INQUIRY AND TO SUBSEQUENTLY DETERMINE:
THE VALE OF GLAMORGAN COUNCIL – (ADDITION OF PUBLIC FOOTPATH NO. 72E, BARRY) – DEFINITIVE MAP MODIFICATION ORDER 2014

The effect of the Order, if confirmed as made, will modify the Definitive Map and Statement for the area by adding to them the footpath running from public footpath 72e at the rear of 39 Porth y Castell, Barry, approximately 30 metres north west of the rail tunnel entrance at NGR 309855 166948, continuing in a north easterly direction following a track with an earth surface for 37 metres to NGR 309879 166976; the path then adopts a south easterly alignment continuing downhill for 107 metres to the previous location of a set of steps before joining Romilly Park Road at NGR 309960 166907; total length 144 metres, width 1 metre.

The purpose of the Inquiry is to enable the Inspector to hear representation from those persons who have objected to the Order. Any other interested persons may also attend and be allowed to speak at the discretion of the Inspector.

Any person wishing to view the statements of case and other documents relating to the Orders may do so by appointment at the Vale of Glamorgan Council Offices, Dock Office, Barry Docks, Barry CF63 4RT - Contact Gwyn Teague on 01446 704810 or email gwteague@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk.

On and Off The Turf

WITH BRIAN LEE

EVERY year, tens of thousands of racegoers cram themselves into Cheltenham Racecourse, the spiritual home of steeplechasing, for the annual week-long festival and culminating in the Gold Cup.

But who would have thought this seemingly-innocent gathering could set the stage for an intense and blistering attempt to outsmart a fierce cyber criminal?

Well, in Harriet Redfern's novels, anything is possible!

This is exactly what plays out in Tabikat; as the world of horse racing is turned on its head and the serenity of a Somerset racing yard becomes the playground for a whip-snapping adventure.

Tabikat is a talented racehorse, bred in rural Ireland by Eoghan Foley, a former jump jockey with a dramatic past.

This thriller, set in the horse-racing world, tells the story of the fight back against an organised crime family by Tabikat's connections.

The main action moves between Sampfield Grange, a point-to-point training yard in Somerset; Frossiac, a village on the Canal du Midi in Aude, France; Gleannglas, a small town in County Kerry, Ireland; and the famed Cheltenham Racecourse in Gloucestershire.

Tabikat holds an entry in the Gold Cup and is unexpectedly sent from a top Irish yard to reclusive English trainer James Sampfield Peveril, known to the racing world as Sam.

Sam is visited by an old friend, Frank Stanley, who asks him to take on a mysterious new employee, Isabella Hall.

The staff at the yard suspect that Isabella is not what she seems, and are determined to uncover her secret.

Kye McMahon, Sam's stable groom, fears Isabella will expose his activities as a drug dealer, while household staff Kelly and Lewis believe Isabella to be having an affair with Frank Stanley.

Sadie Shinkins, the yard manager is preoccupied with her affair with Merlin ap Rhys, Tabikat's jockey, as the two of them help Sam to prepare Tabikat for the race of his life.

Meanwhile, a mysterious English visitor to a remote French village is writing a novel about a murder at a deserted airfield committed by the head of an organised crime family.

The connection between the author George Harvey, Isabella Hall and the racehorse Tabikat gradually emerges as Sam desperately tries to understand the true nature of what Frank Stanley has really asked of him.

Peopled by colourful characters, both good and bad, from the racing world, the story reaches its climax as the Cheltenham Gold Cup is run.

The book will appeal to anyone who enjoys a gradually unfolding thriller set in the exciting world of horse racing and it can be obtained, either on Kindle or in paperback using this link: https://www.feedaread.com/books/Tabikat-9781786973.aspx.

THELIGNY WINS

TheLigny, a winner for Aberthin's Tim Vaughan last month, kept up the good work by scoring again at Huntingdon on Tuesday.

Partnered by champion jockey Richard Johnson, the promising five-year-old landed the Molson Coors Novices' Hurdle race by two lengths from My Mo and went off the 4-6 favourite.

Golf day in aid of the Cerys Potter Foundation

SATURDAY, October 8, saw the fifth annual Llancarfan Charity Golf Day in aid of the Cerys Potter Foundation which was held at Cottrell Park Golf Club.

Eighteen golfers of differing standards came together in a Texas Scramble format to see who would be champions and hold the bragging rights for the remaining 12 months.

There were a number of competitions throughout the day; Marilyn Barrett won the nearest the pin on the eighth hole narrowly edging out Paul Murphy.

John Ford was victorious in the longest drive, with a stunning shot that pitched past his nearest rival's ball – again Paul Murphy.

Max Evans correctly guessed the number of balls lost on the day – 30 in all!

Simon Cox the professional at Cottrell Park Golf Club kindly donated a free lesson that was raffled and raised £150

The winning four ball were the team that consisted of Paul Murphy (finally he won something!), Nick Crane, Bobby D and Janey Williams.

It was a very close fought match with all five teams within four points of each other, congratulations to the winning team.

The teams retired to the Fox & Hounds where James and his team fed the teams with a slap-up pie & mash supper.

We'd like to thank the organisers – Matt, Rich and John, to James at the Fox & Hounds for hosting us and also to Cottrell Park for organising a fantastic event that brought together members of the community and raise over £350 for a charity that is very close to our hearts. JF

PENARTH HOCKEY CLUB ROUND-UP

PENARTH Hockey Club's first XI were made to work hard for a share of the spoils in a top-of-the-table clash with Swindon, allowing the seconds to bask in the glory of an 8-0 thrashing of local rivals Whitchurch in week two of the new GoCrea8 league campaign.

From the start, Swindon proved to be a very solid team with no weak links for Penarth to expose.

The match was played at a frantic tempo with the visitors flying out of the blocks and, even though Penarth gradually managed to wrest control after the opening exchanges, it was Swindon that broke the deadlock, with a reverse stick cross finding an unmarked attacker at the back post to give them the lead midway through the first half.

Penarth refused to let their heads drop, however, and continued to press for a goal of their own. While their efforts were to no avail before the half-time whistle, the Bears came out strong after the break and, once again, their tough pre-season preparation paid off as they looked the fresher team pushing forward.

The Vale side had a gilt-edge chance to equalise from the penalty spot after a Ben Croxall shot was illegally stopped on the goal line but, despite David Joyce sending the Swindon keeper the wrong way, his effort was somehow clawed off the line by the netminder's flailing stick.

Again, Penarth refused to let the setback deflate them, knowing that, as their pressure mounted, it would only be a matter of time before they'd get the chance to level the scores.

Sure enough, the opportunity arose via another penalty flick after Swindon again illegally prevented a shot from crossing the line and, this time, Croxall stepped up and made no mistake from the spot.

Penarth could now sense victory and went for the jugular but, attacking with reckless abandon, left themselves open at the back, allowing Swindon to strike on the counter-attack, with an excellent reverse stick shot regaining the lead for the visitors.

With little time remaining, Penarth threw caution to the wind and went all-out in attack in an effort to rescue something from the game. With just minutes on the clock, captain Tom Haran sent a long pass up the right wing, allowing Chris Baker to leave his marker for dead before driving into the D and smashing the ball into the bottom corner with unerring accuracy and composure.

The Bears almost snatched all three points' right at the death, as Joyce shot narrowly wide, but it was not the Vale side's finest performance, at times panicking when they fell behind, and it took all the spirit and fight that took them to a division title last season to come away with a share of the spoils.

WHITCHURCH C 0, PENARTH A 8

After a disappointing defeat on the opening weekend of the season, Penarth's second XI looked to get their first points on the board in De Cymru 1 with an away game against Whitchurch 'C', and it was a strong side – complete with a couple of summer signings - that made the trip knowing that nothing short of victory would suffice.

Penarth started well and dominated from the off, with Sam Docherty orchestrating from central midfield. Unsurprisingly, it did not take long for the pressure on the pitch to transfer to the scoreboard with Phil Lane converting an early penalty corner.

Penarth soon doubled their lead when Dave Kidby tapped home at the back post, while further strikes from Steve Davies - with his first touch of the game - and Lane, with a sweet strike from the top of the D, made it 4-0 within 20 minutes.

Whitchurch looked shell-shocked but Penarth were playing excellent hockey and maintained their momentum with captain Sam Chick grabbing a fifth before Davies added a sixth before half-time.

The Vale side looked to keep up the intensity after the interval, but Whitchurch came out for the second half much more organised and enjoyed a spell of possession that led to a series of penalty short corners.

During this period of play, however, a goalmouth scramble escalated into an altercation between Penarth goalkeeper Simon Comfort and one of the Whitchurch players, which saw Comfort receive a yellow card and time in the sin bin while his adversary was shown a straight red for violent conduct.

With no keeper for 10 minutes, Mark Thomas bravely offered to stand in as 'kicking back' only to find that his first duty was to face down another Whitchurch penalty corner.

Defiantly, Thomas proceeded to charge the corner down, blocking the shot which nicely cushioned the ball to Chick to start a Penarth breakaway.

Chick duly took the ball upfield before slipping a pass to Chris McCarthy, who completed a hat-trick of assists by unselfishly squaring to Kidby for another tap-in.

With Penarth a man up for the majority of the second half, Whitchurch might have capitulated but, to their credit, they worked tirelessly to frustrate the Bears and limited the visiting side to just one further score, with Sam Salisbury continuing his strong start to the season by adding an eighth late on.

SWANSEA UNIVERSITY C 1, PENARTH B 0

The third XI travelled to Swansea to take on the local university's C team in their first De Cymru 3 league match of the season and what was expected to be one of the hardest matches of the campaign turned out to be just that.

The students dominated most of the possession in the first half, but failed to create many clear-cut chances due to a solid and well-organised defensive display by the Penarth back four of James Davies, Simon Wilkinson, Morgan Salisbury and Rob Harrison.

As the half wore on, Penarth slowly got themselves back into the game and created a couple of good chances through quick breaks, although these were unfortunately wasted by the forwards.

Despite that, Penarth went into the break in the ascendancy and confident that they could get something out of the game, but the second half started the same way as the first, with the university side controlling most of the pitch.

Once again, however, the Penarth defence thwarted what chances were created and, even when the students did find a way through, some good saves by goalkeeper Mark Harris meant that there was no score going into the final quarter.

As they had in the first period, Penarth started to get more of the possession as the half wore on, and again created two or three good opportunities only to see them go begging.

Good use of rolling substitutions by the Bears meant that they matched the youth and fitness of the students, with Tom Griffiths working tirelessly in the midfield on his third XI debut.

The resistance could not last, however, and the university gradually began to play more and more of the game in the Penarth half.

The home side continued to waste the opportunity to put then game away.

With little over five minutes remaining, the Bears looked like they were going to hang on for a draw, only for a late effort from the students to take a deflection in the D before being diverted into his own net by the hapless Paul Thomas. Penarth mounted a late challenge for a share of the points, but the university held on to keep the scoreline at 1-0. CL

Vale United make it eight wins on the bounce against Dinas

DINAS POWYS were the latest team to fall victim to the Vale United juggernaut, as they were soundly beaten by the league leaders at Brig y Don.

Coming into the game on the back of a 6-2 victory in the cup last week, United made key changes in order to keep players fresh heading into the long winter slog.

Out went skipper Richard Evans, with the effervescent Thomas Hopkin slotting in at right-back, while the midfield trio of Dan Hanson, Phil Caseley and Matt Hobbs were all reinstated to the starting 11 after being rested against Barry Saints.

The impressive strike force of Jay Tominey, Alex Gregory and Nathan Jenkins were once again given chance to impress after last weekend's rout.

After the game finally got underway, it didn't take long for Vale to hit their stride, the busy Jay Tominey flicking in a delightful header from dead-ball specialist, Matt Hobbs, to give the visitors a deserved 0-1 lead.

Vale's attacking threat was clear to see, with Nathan Jenkins next to test the home-team, shooting straight at the keeper when it seemed easier to score.

It was one-way traffic up until this point, although Dinas did threaten once on the break, forcing stand-in skipper, Gerwyn Teague into an important, if routine, save, to keep the score at 0-1.

Minutes later, it was 0-2 - a training ground corner routine saw Tominey pick out Gregory on the edge of the box, the in-form winger lashing home a first-time half-volley to give the scoreline the look that United's dominance deserved.

The half continued in much the same fashion, United squandering chances galore, through a mixture of rank-bad finishing and inspired goalkeeping from the home team's giant stopper.

Vale came into the second half looking to build on their impressive first half, though a tactical change by Dinas saw them able to stifle the regularity of the Vale attacks, though when they did beat the back-line, it was once again bad finishing that kept the scoreline at 0-2.

Dinas very rarely threatened the Vale backline which was once again marshalled superbly Steve Harris and Joe Williams, with James Davies and Thomas Hopkin proving a real attacking threat from full-back, while also remembering their defensive duties.

As the game wore on, more chances came and went for the unusually profligate visitors, as they missed chance after chance to put the game to bed and improve their already healthy goal difference.

As it was, the half-time scoreline was also the full-time score line, the 2-0 victory stretching their winning run to an impressive eight games. GT

THEY came from near and went far – 13.1 miles to be precise – around Cardiff for 2016's half-marathon, which took place on October 2.

Billed as 'flat, fast and iconic', the half-marathon took in some of the Welsh capital's best-known areas, such as Roath and Pontcanna, and, naturally, Cardiff Bay. Roll on 2017!

Llantwit Major RFC progress in the Bowl

THE third round of the cup competition brought familiar visitors Canton RFC to the Recreation Ground.

Llantwit were expecting a tough encounter which didn't materialise as they cantered to a 45-3 win. This was partly due to a very good performance from the home team and also Canton's decision to field a development XV consisting of a mixture of first and second XV players.

The game was all about the first half as Llantwit racked up 38 points with only an early penalty in reply by Canton.

The forwards set the platform as yet again they dominated a much bigger pack in the scrum with a strong performance, putting Canton under early pressure which they never really recovered from. An early Dan Powell penalty was just reward for the good start and big tackles being put in across the field.

Next saw the highlight of the game as man of the match fullback Wise Vakacegu took a pass inside the Llantwit half and make an audacious shimmy and dummy pass which left not only the opponents but most of the crowd flummoxed as to what was happening.

By the time they had caught up, Wise had already split the Canton defence apart and broken away, good handling and support from his fellow backs putting Jack Austin over at the clubhouse end for a converted try.

This was soon followed by a second try, again coming from some excellent back play and quick passing putting strong running wing Luke Dawes over under the posts.

There was no doubt by this time that Llantwit were going to be too strong for their opponents as they were dominating all set pieces, particularly the scrum, confirmed with a well-organised pushover try being grounded by number eight Rob Carter.

It was then the turn of the backs as wing Rhys Balmont showed his pace in racing over from another move started from inside their own half. The first half ended with Steff Godwin capping a solid performance at scrum half by diving over from some more forward pressure.

The second half began as the first half ended with Llantwit quickly crossing the whitewash at the school end with a Gareth Watts try and a touchline conversion from the ever-dependable Powell who contributed 13 points from his accurate kicking.

The rest of the half sadly did not live up to the start as the game saw no further score as Canton, to their credit, stubbornly refused to lie down and defended strongly and threw everything they had at the home team.

The Llantwit coaching team also took advantage of the big lead to make several changes and give some fringe players a good run out. The game though was still entertaining with plenty of open rugby from both sides and a sin-binning each to contend with.

Another pleasing aspect for the coaches was Llantwit's defence in not conceding any points when down to 14 men and for the second game running, not conceding any tries.

Hopefully, this will be good preparation for this week's game as they take the long trip up the A470 to Merthyr Tydfil as Cefn Coed RFC are the opponents, kick-off 2.30pm.

The game will provide a stern test of Llantwit's early season form as they face the unbeaten league leaders; any supporters are welcome to travel on the team bus leaving at 12 noon.

A final note to make is, disappointingly, there has again been an increase in dog muck being found on the Recreation Ground. This is unacceptable as the health of players and children is at risk.

Dog mess is not only unsightly and unpleasant but can spread disease, or in extreme cases, cause blindness. The rugby club is appealing to dog owners who allow this practice to stop before any harm is caused.

Barry Town reach quarter-finals after giant killing!

UNDERDOGS Barry Town United booked their place in the quarter-finals of the Nathaniel MG Cup with an impressive 1-0 win over Welsh Premier League opposition on Tuesday, October 4.

After Town striker James Dixon had been bundled over in the box, Bobby Briers' 67th-minute spot kick proved enough to see off Cardiff Met at a floodlit Jenner Park, watched by a crowd of around 300 spectators.

The Archers had been awarded a penalty of their own within moments of Barry's opener, only for goalkeeper Mike Lewis to pull out a crucial save, preserving the home side's slender advantage.

Barry's best chance in open play came when Dixon struck the crossbar before the break, and while the Met enjoyed their fair share of possession over the course of the 90 minutes, the visitors were unable to break down a resolute Town defence, inspired by returning man of the match Lewis Cosslett.

This was Barry's first competitive victory over Welsh Premier League adversaries for more than 12 years and their first home win in the newly-expanded competition since September 2001.

Barry will now host fellow Welsh League outfit Haverfordwest County in the quarter-finals, as Gavin Chesterfield's squad continue their pursuit for senior silverware on four separate fronts.

The tie between Barry and Haverfordwest will be played at Jenner Park on Tuesday, October 25 (7.45pm), with the winners set to be handed a semi-final showdown on neutral ground with either Carmarthen Town or Newtown.

The northern section of the quarter-final draw, meanwhile, pits Connah's Quay against Rhyl and Bangor City against holders The New Saints.

Barry return to Welsh League Division One action this weekend, away at Goytre AFC in Gwent (2.30pm).

Barry Town: Mike Lewis, Bobby Briers, Luke Cooper, Lewis Cosslett, Chris Hugh, James Saddler (c), Louis Gerrard, Jordan Cotterill, Tyrell Webbe, James Dixon, Michael Hartley. Substitutes: Nathan Mathias, Lee Baldock, Dan Bradley, TJ Nagi (for Cotterill), Kareem Leigh (for Dixon).

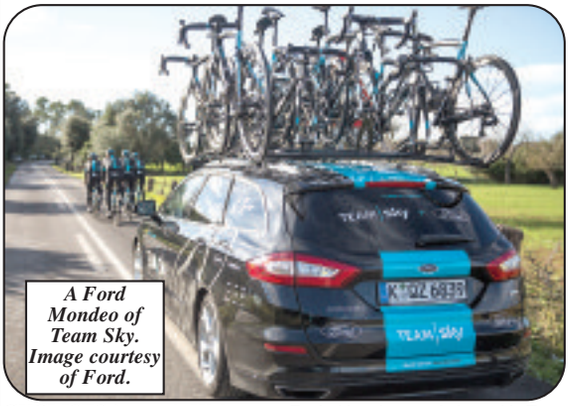
Team Sky and Tour de Ford motor into Bridgend county



A Ford Mondeo of Team Sky. Image courtesy of Ford.

CYCLISTS in south Wales are invited to get a taste of the pro cycling experience at a Tour de Ford-led ride, in association with Team Sky, at Bridgend Ford, Waterton Industrial Estate, Bridgend, on Sunday, October 16.

Ford, which is Team Sky's exclusive supplier of cars and vans, is hosting Tour de Ford events around the country.

The free group cycle rides will be accompanied by Team Sky-liveried Ford Mondeo estate cars – the same vehicles used to support 2016 Tour de France-winning team.

The route, of around 50 miles, in the south Wales countryside will start and finish at Bridgend Ford.

The non-competitive rides will follow a route plotted on Strava, the social network for athletes.

Lisa Brankin, director of marketing, Ford of Britain, said: "Our Tour de Ford rides, in association with Team Sky, are a great way for cyclists to get a feel for the Team Sky experience on their own local roads. "We want to offer an enjoyable and different day's riding for local cyclists and hope riders will join us on the inaugural Tour de Ford events."

The Tour de Ford celebrates Ford's partnership with Team Sky. The partnership agreement affords Team Sky access to a range of Ford vehicles to provide specific support for all key areas of the Team Sky racing and non-racing programme.

Liveried in the distinctive blue and black Team Sky colours, the most visible cars in the peloton are the Ford Mondeo estates used by the team's crew.

Under-9s are left tired but happy!

SATURDAY saw the three Llantwit Major under-9 teams in action in glorious sunshine with the Lions and Saints at home against Sully, and the Dragons away at Wenvoe against Barry Town Yellows.

Having had a few players pull out after failing late fitness tests, the teams were a bit stretched so meant some very tired legs at the end.

All games were close once again but extremely competitive.

The Dragons' player of the week award was a difficult choice again with a couple of players putting in fine performances However, it was decided to award it to one of their goalscorers, Dylan Godsell, who put in a massive shift helping all over the park with some fine passing and skills whilst also doing the dirty work with covering tackles.

Bleddyn Mitchem won the award for the Lions with another sterling performance terrorising the defences with his runs and long throw-ins.

The Saints' award went to Ethan Bacon, who is a very consistent player and once again put in a great all round performance.

This week sees the three sides at home entertaining Barry Town Blues and Holton Road.

Tennis club record their first win!

AFTER rain delayed the start of Llantwit Major Tennis Club's resurgence into competitive tennis, last weekend LMTC visited Garw Valley TC to play their first match in over 10 years and also recorded their first win!

Acting team captain Roger Williams travelled to face their opponents in the Valleys alongside Dawn Howels, Vicki Seaton and Neil Davies.

The match was an incredibly close affair with the final result being decided by a single set.

The first round of matches saw LMTC first pair Vicki and Neil play their opposite number in what turned out to be the match that decided the tie. Garw Valley edged the match winning in a third set tiebreak 3-6, 6-4, 10-8.

Second pair Dawn and Roger also had a close but successful first match against their opposite number winning in straight sets 7-6, 6-3.

Confidence was clearly high for the Garw Valley first pair as they cruised to a more comfortable victory of 6-3, 6-2 over Dawn and Roger. Llantwit first pair Vicki and Neil took the final rubber in another close straight sets win 6-4, 6-4 which also sealed the overall win in the tie thanks to that crucial set in the first round.

Pictured are last weekend's team (from right to left): Dawn Howels, Neil Davies, Roger Williams and Vicki Seaton.

This Saturday at 1.30pm LMTC will face Barry Community Tennis Club which was the match that was rescheduled due to rain in September.

During the match only one court will be available for the regular social tennis that takes place each week on a Saturday from 2pm.

Social tennis on a Friday from 5.30pm will continue each week until the clocks change.

The club welcomes any spectators for the match and also any new players looking to take up tennis.

If you are interested in joining or would like to find out more about our club, please visit our website – www.llantwittennis.co.uk or email info@llantwittennis.co.uk.

Golfers impress in trip to Bromsgrove

SUNDAY saw seven Special Olympics Wales golfers set off from their home club of St Andrews Major Golf Club for the Special Olympics West Midland golf tournament, to be held in Bromsgrove Golf Club the following day.

First to tee off were the 18 hole Division 1 players made up of our own Matthew Sims from Cardiff, Sam Lazenbury (Barry) and Matthew Prewett (Lavernock).

The competition was very close with Sam Lazenbury taking the title by one stoke with a round of 95, from second place Matthew Sims 96 and in third place Matthew Prewett.

Our next golfers were in the nine hole competition, Division 1, with another closely fought competition with only four strokes between the first and fifth places - James Savory was fourth, Mark Eveleigh sixth and Gareth Lloyd in seventh place, all three are from Barry.

Our final golfer was Adrian Abbott from Llantwit Major who took the gold medal place in nine hole Division 3 competition.

We now return to St Andrews Major Golf Club to prepare for our next competition under the watchful eye of golf professional John Hastings.

The golfers would like to take this opportunity to thank the members and staff of the St Andrews Major Golf Club for the warm welcome they receive at the club every week.

If anyone is interested in taking part as an athlete or volunteer, the sports we cover within Special Olympics Cardiff & Vale group are badminton, bocce, boccia, indoor bowls, golf, artistic gymnastics, sprint kayaking, 10-pin bowling and swimming - for more information please contact Jeff Savory via: specialolympicswales@gmail.com or 0780 316 5581.

Vale Council support for sports clubs

ARE you part of a sports club within the Vale or an organisation which delivers, or would like to deliver, sport for local residents?

The Vale Council's sports development team are holding a community club open day/evening on Tuesday, October 18 to which representatives of your club are invited.

Members of the team will be at Barry YMCA Hub, Court Road, Barry, from 3pm to 8pm, during which time your representatives can speak to a member of the team.

The team are able to assist with a range of areas, including Community Chest applications – a grant scheme that awards financial support to organisations proposing ideas for getting people in the Vale of Glamorgan more active, more often – whose deadline is November 10.

Other areas of funding are also able to be discussed, as well as club-development planning and the development of additional opportunities. The development of school-club links can also be raised, as can coach development and volunteer recruitment.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for visible, leisure and regulatory services, commented: "Our teams at sports development and play have a love of sport, and a passion for increasing the number of people taking part in sports and play opportunities across the Vale of Glamorgan."

The information drop-in session is open to all groups/organisations who wish to develop sporting activities.

Any interested groups should contact Rachel Shepherd, Sports Development, on 07730 749485m or by e-mailing rlshepherd@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk.

VALE OF GLAMORGAN FOOTBALL LEAGUE ROUND-UP

ANOTHER excellent weekend in the Vale of Glamorgan league saw a mixture of nervy wins, upset wins and one crazy scoreline.

In the Premier Division Penarth Town produced an fine result to win 3-2 away to Barry Athletic.

St Athan also produced a great result on their travels, edging Rhoose 1-0.

The results keep the pressure on still-undefeated Vale United who made it eight wins out of eight in all competitions with a 2-0 victory away to Dinas Powys Athletic.

Island Marine notched their first win of the season with an impressive 5-1 league win over Masons Moving Group who find themselves bottom of the table.

In the First Division Barry Athletic B went back to the top with a mammoth 10-0 drubbing of bottom side Glen-brook.

FC Pumas got back to winning way after two draws, winning 6-1 against Cadoxton Barry to go second.

Cogan were victorious 3-1 against Dockers - that's two on the bounce in the league for the first division champions but Dockers are without a win in three.

Cadoxton Athletic came out 6-4 winners against Sully in an entertaining game in somewhat of an upset, an tremendous win for Athletic.

In Division Two an incredible 15 goals were scored in one game, in the battle of the Saints, Barry Saints won 10-5 away to St Athan B.

BVFC bounced back from a massive defeat in the cup last week to edge Penarth B 3-2, halting Towns run of four wins in a row.

Barry Albion had lost five in a row in the league but they battled to a 3-3 draw against Island Marine B, their indifferent form continuing.

Finally in the battle of the bottom two, Rhoose B and Pumas B, played out a 1-1 draw.

As of writing the results of Tynewydd vs Cowbridge and SP Billy vs Cardiff Airport were still unknown.

This week's picks of the day look like being Cowbridge vs Penarth in the Premier Division; in the First Division, in what could be the complete stand out, it's first vs second as Barry Athletic B play FC Pumas, and in the Second Division league leaders Cadoxton Imps are back in action in a tough test against Island Marine B. HD

Taverners set their sights on taking cricket to all parts of the world

A LOCAL cricketing charity has thanked a Cardiff sports business for giving its recycling programme a big boost.

Thousands of youngsters from around the world benefit each year from the Lord's Taverners Sports Kit Recycling programme and thanks to a donation from Macron in Cardiff, the Taverners will be able to help many more young people around the globe.

The Cardiff sportswear store has donated four boxes of recycled sportswear to the Wales Lord's Taverners to used in projects across the world.

In the past 12 months, more than 5,500 pieces of kit donated by manufacturers, clubs and members of the public has helped young people around the world play cricket for the first time.

Along with supporting projects in countries such as India, Brazil, Gambia and Ghana, more recently youngsters closer to home have benefitted as refugees in Germany have been sent cricket kit as they look to continue their love of the sport developed in their home countries of Afghanistan and Pakistan.

In the past 12 months, the Lord's Taverners have donated hundreds of kilograms of kit to youngsters across the globe, including to: Cricket Brazil (310kg); Gambia Cricket Association (340kg); Mexico Cricket Association (305kg) and Rwanda Cricket Association (330kg).

How can you help? If you have any unwanted kit or equipment, or if your club is willing to become a collection hub, then the Lord's Taverners would like to hear from you. Your donations really do make a difference to young people's lives around the world.

For more information about how to donate unwanted kit, or how a club can become a collection hub, visit www.lordstaverners.org/sportskitrecycling.

Jiu Jitsu club members represent Wales in Canada

TEN members of the Vale Jiu Jitsu Club based in St Brides Major represented Wales at Jitsu International 2016, held in Collingwood, Ontario, Canada this summer.

Jitsu International 2016 was attended by over 250 participants from ten different contries.

Despite being based in a small rural village, the Vale Jiu Jitsu Club has always punched well above its weight.

Over the last six years it has competed successfully against clubs based in some of the world's biggest cities, winning the team award at the British Junior Jiu Jitsu Foundation Randori Championships earlier this year and the Senior Display Competition at Jitsu International 2016, Ontario, Canada.

Jitsu International is held every three years and is the most prestigious competition held by the Jiu Jitsu Foundation International.

The Vale Jiu Jitsu Club will be defending its title in South Africa in 2019.

Lifeguard Karen lands gold treble!

RHOOSE Lifeguard Karen O'Donoghue-Harris recently won three gold medals at the Masters World Surf Life Saving Championships.

The Championships were held in the small fishing town of Noordwijk, which sits on the North Sea in the Netherlands.

With tricky sea and wind conditions, Karen's first event was the board race where she got a bronze medal in her age group.

This was quickly followed by a gold medal in the Ski race and Ocean Woman, which is a multi-discipline event consisting of a run, swim, board and ski leg. The following day was all about team events and, together with her team mates, Karen took gold in the Ski Relay and bronze in the Beach Relay and Taplin Relay.

Karen said: "It's been a long season but all the hard work and training has certainly paid off and it's been worth all the effort." GH

Junior golfers in finals at Cottrell Park

SEVENTY FIVE young golfers between the ages of 6-14 took part in the finals of the 2016 Welsh Junior Tour, a suitable climax in a successful first year for the new event in the Welsh sporting calendar.

They qualified for the finals at Cottrell Park, the Welsh Golf Club of the Year for 2015, as a result of their performances at junior tour events over the course of the season.

The junior tour has been so successful this season that the Golf Union of Wales are already planning to extend the event next year.

In the under-10s section William Pontin for Rhondda carried the day with a great score of 61 points, just edging out junior tour regular Brodi Lewis from Pyle & Kenfig who was second with 60 points.

Michael Collis continued a great day for the Mold juniors with a third place finish. Zak Baker from Llandrindod Wells, Abergele's Jack McKinney and Bargoed's Ryan Williams have been battling it out all season in the under-12s age group.

On this occasion, Williams came in fourth having been pipped for third by Ralph O'Carroll from nearby St Athan Golf Club.

In the under-14 girls Megan Vineall from Newport continued her run of good form winning by two points from The Vale Resort's Darcey Harry with Kasumi Tran from Tenby in third place.

Barry RFC impress in Plate defeat

QUITE rightly, the coaching team and supporters alike were excited with the performance of the Barry squad after an exciting Swalec Plate encounter against First Division opponents Rumney at the Reservoir Field last Saturday.

Although they lost the game 28-22, the result was in doubt up to the final whistle and really could have gone either way.

Barry got off to a flyer as a deep clearance from Scott put them just short of the line. Winning a second lineout, the ball reached Scott whose clever chip ahead was taken by Moyle to cross unopposed and with the conversion gave them an early lead after five minutes.

The visitors, clearly shocked by this early reverse, pressurised Barry, but a solid defence was frustrating them at every turn and it was only penalty chances which offered them the chance get on the scoresheet. Although the first three were missed, the following two within minutes of each other were successful to bring the score back to 7-6 after 27 minutes.

Barry hit back straight from the restart with the ball being carried by backs and forwards alike as they reached the 22 and recycled for the ball, finding Luke O'Sullivan from a Scott dummy to cross for the try and conversion to extend the lead that their efforts deserved.

The visitors had to regroup as the Barry approach had completely put them out of their stride in the opening 30 minutes. Rare attempts for the Rumney back line to test Barry gave an indication that they were dangerous and with Barry conceding regular penalties, the opportunity was bound to arise and it finally did when a poor clearance kick gave them the chance which they took to score an unconverted try in the corner.

This score brought Rumney to life as their confidence grew as half-time neared. but resolute defence and the will to counter attack kept the score at 14-11 at the interval.

Obvious stern words from the coach saw the visitors launch a series of attacks in the opening minutes of the second half as they controlled the game but yet again were thwarted by Barry's resilience in defence.

Barry somehow regained possession and launched a trademark counter attack which saw White gain 50 yards and forced Rumney to concede a penalty, and with Scott again successful, Barry extended their lead to six points.

More was to come as Barry collected the restart and a fine break from Moyle saw him link with the supporting Luke O'Sullivan, who raced over the try line for his second try of the afternoon which went unconverted but increased the lead to 11 points.

However, Rumney were not finished and after getting back into the game with a penalty, continued applying pressure as Barry were still being constantly penalised and forced on the back foot by some accurate tactical kicking.

Finding themselves just short of the Barry line, Rumney took a scrum which disrupted the Barry defence allowing the No 9 to sneak over for a converted try which left the teams with only a point between them.

Rumney continued with the tactical kicking which saw them camped in Barry territory. Unfortunately, Barry failed to take their own lineout and paid the penalty as the loose ball bounced nicely into Rumney hands for a try which, although slightly unlucky, gave the visitors a six-point lead.

The remaining minutes saw Barry really show their character and commitment as they looked for the try which could win them the game.

They looked to have done so as, following two quick penalties, they appeared to have driven over only to be recalled by the referee for a knock on. Barry kept up the pressure with three scrums on the five yard line but just could not get over the whitewash, and it was the visitors who were more than grateful as the final whistle went.

As previously mentioned, this was an outstanding performance by the squad against opponents from a higher level and if this sort of form can be maintained results will follow.

The club still have a limited number of tickets available for the autumn internationals - would any member interested contact Colin Ham on 01446 405726.

Last week's lottery numbers,which again failed to find a winner, were 02, 05, 07 and 16 - this week's prize fund will be £2,750.

WOLVES SHINE IN NEW KIT!

DINAS POWYS Wolves, sporting their new kit, really shone on Saturday morning in a fine display of attacking football against IMFC Yellows.

Bayley Harewood was certainly in the mood as he scored six in total. Kyle Booker and Rian Thomas showed some very strong running on and off the ball throughout the game, which created plenty of openings.

Conor O'Brien had a very good match, competing well and showing some very good touches in key areas.

Not known for his goalscoring, Zac Fifield managed to bag two with some powerful strikes - training last week certainly paid off.

His midfield partner Joe Doughty, didn't want to be outdone and managed to net two goals.

The goals came from Harewood (6), Joe Doughty (2), Jake Lewis, Zac Fifield (2) and Kyle Booker (2).

The club would like to thank the Monmouthshire Building Society for their new kit.

Barry Seconds spring Cup upset

BARRY RFC second XV travelled to Pontyclun more in hope than expectation for their second round tie in the East District Cup.

Barry's defence had to be well-organised to thwart Pontyclun. See more pictures from HOWARD POOLE at barry-today.co.uk.

Coach Rhidian Scott and manager Ken Chow were forced to delve deep into their resources to piece a squad together following a long string of injuries and withdrawals.

As a result, hooker Dave Evans was converted into inside centre, Hywel Jones made his first start of the season, and there were promotions from the third XV for Lee Turnbull, Tom Poole, Jay Ashill and Joe Chucas.

Their hosts took the game right from the first whistle, attempting to break down the hastily assembled Barry side.

Despite the hurried preparations, however, the green-and-whites held firm with some resolute defending, led by the back-row trio of Callum Scott, Seb Vidal and Hywel Jones.

Kyle Barros, starting his first ever second XV game for Barry, marshalled forwards and backs alike superbly from scrum-half, and as the half wore on, Barry were looking the more likely.

Pontyclun's pressure looked to have told when they fashioned a break out wide, and just when their winger was odds-on to score, a superb covering tackle from Jones turned the ball over to snuff out the danger.

From the resultant scrum on the Barry line, Barros scavenged a loose ball and ran clear. He passed expertly to Dylan Robertson, who, with acres of space in front of him, exploited it brilliantly before offloading to Mike Hamonda, whose pace was unrivalled as he scored his third try in two games. Barros added the extras.

Stung, the hosts finally began to string some phases of play together to exert consistent pressure on the Barry line.

They were met by more obdurate defending but were rewarded eventually when they forced across the try-line, although there was a hint of knock-on in the build-up. The conversion was missed.

Barros and his opposite kicker traded penalties before the interval to keep Barry 10-8 up at half-time.

Pontyclun upped the tempo after the interval in an attempt to break their visitors down, and profited early on when they broke the Barry line to score under the posts for a converted try.

Bewildered by their loss of concentration and eager to make amends, Barry tried to hit back at their hosts immediately.

With the front row turning the screw at scrum time, coach Scott decided to introduce veteran Gerwyn Pugh into proceedings, switching the influential Barros to fly-half.

Afforded more space to operate on, Barros immediately fashioned an opportunity, exchanging passes with his midfield before setting Hamonda free out wide, and the latter's pace did the rest. Barros' unerring boot gave Barry a 17-15 advantage.

Pontyclun seemed to be shell-shocked by that sucker-punch and began to lose discipline in their approach, and when the referee awarded Barry a penalty opportunity, Barros was on hand to increase Barry's lead to five.

The home side finally got themselves together to gain some territory, but was unable to find any gaps in the watertight Barry defence, despite pinning their visitors on the line.

When they eventually lost possession, Barros' boot found touch some 60 yards back into Pontyclun territory, further deflating the hosts.

Another discretion from the home side meant that Barros had the chance to convert another penalty, an opportunity that he did not turn down, to increase the Barry lead to eight.

Pontyclun seemed to run out of ideas as the clock ticked away, and it was fitting that Barry who seemed more likely.

Indeed, Barros would stroke over another penalty in the dying embers of the game, but there was still time for one more score with the last play, with Robertson, now at full back, finding himself in space.

His chip-and-chase was executed to perfection, as he gathered his own kick to race away and score under the posts.

Fittingly, Barros sent over the conversion with the last kick of the game to secure a 33-15 victory against all odds.

This was one of the most memorable victories for Barry this season and the management would like to thank all the players who took part for their effort and attitude.

Barry RFC second XV return to league action next weekend against Rhiwbina at home, while third XV are away at Llanishen.

Team: McCann; Poole, Evans, Hamonda, Peake; Robertson, Barros; Corne, Turnbull, Brooke; McTavish (c), Ashill; Vidal, Scott, Jones. Replacements: Richards, Pugh, Chucas; substitutes not used: Fortt, Bailey. Man of the match: Barros.

RHOOSE BACK TO WINNING WAYS

AFC Rhoose under-14s got back to winning ways with a fantastic 4-0 win over Sully Sports Dynamos.

Rhoose pressed early on and took the lead with Ewan Heywood used his speed down the left and his defence-splitting through ball picked out Kieran Daw who scored with a left foot volley.

Rhoose continued to attack with the strong midfield trio of Ben Cope, Spencer Williams and Cole Clarke creating a host chances for Rhoose.

Rhoose held a firm line with strong disciplined defending from Kai Scurlock and Joe Parry with full backs Rhys J and Daniel Bacon providing good defensive cover.

Rhoose added a second when Iestyn Wills battled hard and finished superbly into the bottom corner.

Rhoose then scored a third after some great link play in midfield from Adam Schufflebotham and Isaac McBride, Ewan Heywood delivered another low cross for Kieran Daw to finish calmly with into the net.

'Super-sub' Stephen Williams continued to cause problems for the Sully defence and his pass found Ewan Heywood whose deep cross found the head of Spencer Williams to make it 4-0.

Goalkeeper Ryan.J produced some excellent saves to give Rhoose a clean sheet as Rhoose gained a dominant victory.

FRUSTRATION AS POINTS ARE DROPPED IN QUALIFIERS...

Two draws see Wales stumble on the road to World Cup 2018

Action from Vienna as (above) Sam Vokes celebrates Kurt Wimmer's own goal after Marko Arnautovic (below) had levelled the scores for Austria.

by GARETH JAMIESON

HAVING started their road to Russia with an emphatic 4-0 win over Moldova last month, Wales' next two games represented different tests.

An away trip to Group D's second seeds Austria represented the toughest test, arguably of the campaign as a whole, last Thursday, before a home date with Georgia at the Cardiff City Stadium on Sunday.

It says much about the way Wales have developed under Chris Coleman that you can view a middling performance in Vienna, which saw Wales twice take the lead, and a well-earned point as slightly disappointing.

However, Coleman was quick to admit after the game that: "If you can get something when you are not at your best it is a good sign. We made trouble for ourselves, that's not like us. We can play a lot better but we can't fight any harder than that."

It started so well for Wales, when, after an opening that saw both goalkeepers at their best to prevent the deadlock being broken, Joe Allen's sweetly-struck half-volley beat the Austrian goalkeeper Almer to send the near 4,000 away supporters into raptures.

But Austria are a tricky side to beat; while their showing in the Euros was pretty poor, the fact that they went into this game having won their past 10 qualifiers and were also unbeaten in competitive matches at home since 2012 showed how difficult a side they would be to defeat.

If Wales rode the storm of the expected home pressure well after taking the lead, they were undone when a dink over the defence saw Arnautovic nod past Wayne Hennessey, the Austrians deservedly levelling matters.

Austria's manager Marcel Koller had claimed that Wales' Euros success was down to 'luck', so it was ironic that luck played a part in Wales retaking the lead.

James Chester's header from Bale's long throw (a new weapon in the Welsh arsenal) was saved by Almer, only for the ball to ricochet off Kevin Wimmer and creep into the net.

At 2-1 Wales had arguably ridden their luck a little, but the key was to see out the first half and then start the second on the front foot.

However, Arnautovic wasn't paying attention to that, and when Chester failed to control Allen's weak pass, the Stoke City winger took full advantage and pegged Wales back for a second time.

It was a case of backs to the wall after that, both teams having half-chances to go in front but these were not taken, and it was Wales who were arguably the happier of the two teams come the final whistle, a result that saw all the teams in the group (bar Georgia and Moldova) locked on four points apiece.

On to Sunday, and with another sell-out crowd at the Cardiff City Stadium, expectations were that, having put in the hard work in Vienna, Coleman's team would put the other 'minnows' of the group, Georgia, to the sword in much the same way they had Moldova last month.

It seemed all was going to plan when Bale headed home from Joe Ledley's pinpoint corner in the 10th minute, the early goal that had proved so hard to come by the previous month coming with relative ease.

However, Wales' need to put their opponents to the sword and grab what would likely have been a decisive second goal proved fruitless.

Wales' passing game was sloppy, with many passes going straight out of play, and the route one approach of playing the ball high to Sam Vokes yielded little that was positive.

It was a strangely flat and lifeless performance, the first half petering out with the Welsh doing little to double their lead and the visitors offering stubborn resistance.

The second half didn't prove to be much better, the much-needed intensity from Coleman's team lacking and Georgia, sensing the home side's torpor, decided to take the game to their hosts, flooding the midfield and putting pressure on a Welsh back-line that, yet again, looked far from the formidable unit of recent games.

When Georgian pressure led to a cross into the box, it was Tornike Okriashvili who benefited, the Welsh defence static as he headed home to level the scores and stun the crowd.

To say it was a shock would be unfair, as the Georgians had looked the team most likely to score, and the goal drew a boisterous reply from the 32,000 fans as they tried to boost the home players.

For all the chanting, shouting and screaming, it went from bad to worse as Wales were outplayed by the visitors, and while the men in red threw everything at the Georgian defence, it was the latter who had the clear-cut opportunities to win the game, Levan Mchedlidze shooting wide when one-on-one with Wayne Hennessey and Valeri Kazaishvili hitting the bar.

As the final whistle blew, any sense of surprise that Wales had failed to take the three points was tempered by a performance that came nowhere near deserving a victory and, arguably, one where the point earned could be seen as fortunate.

While neither performance in these latest qualifiers was a great one from Chris Coleman's team, and while both games earned a point, the difference between these two results is clear.

To have gained a draw in the tricky environment of Vienna was a great point; to have been held, and outplayed, by a Georgia side who, although better than their world ranking of 137th suggests, should have been beaten, is a case of two points dropped.

As Serbia and the Republic of Ireland moved into the top two places on Sunday evening, two points clear of third-placed Wales, the enormity of the task next month at home to Serbia now sinks in.

Three points are a must in a match that should hopefully see the return of both Aaron Ramsey and Joe Allen (who missed the Georgia game with a hamstring injury).

But as much as those players returning would provide a major fillip, both Coleman and the team need to look at what hasn't worked so far in these qualifiers and rectify it as soon as possible.

The defence has looked creaky, our normally fluid passing game sloppy, and while Sam Vokes is a greater goal threat, Hal Robson Kanu's ability to hold up the ball and bring players into the game needs to be used.

Coleman himself wasn't shy about tackling the subject head on in his post-match press conference: "We've had a little slap around the back of the head to say, 'Hold on, it's not all plain sailing'. We looked fatigued, we looked disjointed... (but) I'd have been amazed if we'd gone through the campaign without a blip."

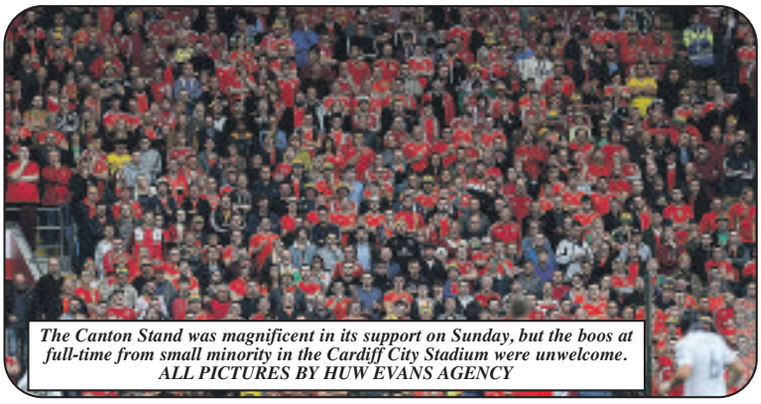
It would also help that the team aren't subjected to catcalls and jeers as they were by a small minority on Sunday evening.

Yes, the result wasn't what was hoped for and the performance certainly wasn't a particularly good one, but the booing was out of place and inexcusable.

Perhaps it's the groundswell of post-Euro 2016 support that has seen those who were swept along by Wales' success snap up the tickets that are likely to see all the home qualifiers sell-out; these fans are used to Wales winning so anything less than that is met with apathy or misplaced hatred.

However, for those fans who have sat through the dark days of losing 5-1 at home to Slovakia, who travelled to Novi Sad to see us thumped 6-1 by Serbia, this result wasn't the end of the world – it was, as Coleman said, a 'blip' and one that will hopefully be forgotten about next month.

We're only three games into the qualifying group and there's plenty more twists and turns before all is said and done – but three points next month would be the perfect medicine to cure the lethargy of Sunday.



The Canton Stand was magnificent in its support on Sunday, but the boos at full-time from small minority in the Cardiff City Stadium were unwelcome. ALL PICTURES BY HUW EVANS AGENCY
